NEW CLEW IN GEM THEFT

FINDING OF SCISSORS MAY AID POLICE

The State police have been called into the $75,000 jewel robbery at Manchester, where gems to that amount were taken from a safe in the rooms of Mrs. James McMillan, widow of United States Senator McMillan of Michigan.

The robbery took place on the night of August 6 or the morning of August 7, at "Eagle Head," the McMillan Summer home at Manchester. Besides the jewels, insurance papers belonging to Mrs. Preston Gibson of Washington, granddaughter of Mrs. McMillan, were taken. Mrs. Gibson began suit for divorce last May.

In the drawer where these papers were the thief or thieves left a small pair of nail or cuticle scissors, which furnished the best clew to the mystery in the case.

The fact of the theft only became known today. Deputy Chief Neal of the State police said:

"State Officer Wells, who is our man in that district, has been working on the case since last week. But the robbery occurred a long time ago—almost two months—and these summer jewel thefts are rarely solved. I never knew of a case where any jewels stolen in this fashion were recovered."

John L. Hall of No. 30 State street, counsel for the McMillan family, today confirmed reports of the robbery. He placed the value of the stolen jewels at "something over $50,000."

It is understood $75,000 is nearer the correct figure. He said the jewels were insured, and that agents of the insurance companies have been at work on the case, though without result.

For a time after the discovery of the loss of the jewels, Mrs. Gibson in her excitement, forgot about the insurance policies.

When she came to look for them, it was to find the drawer which had contained them empty.

But in the drawer the thief or thieves had left a tiny pair of scissors.

The detective, upon investigation, felt sure these scissors pointed to an "inside job," and so reported to Mrs. McMillan.

Chief of Police Sullivan of Manchester refuses to talk about the case beyond saying that the matter of the theft of the jewels has not been reported to him officially for investigation.

GEMS INSURED.

Among the valuable gems stolen were the following:

Pearl necklace, valued at $13,000; diamond watch chain, $6000; two diamond solitaire rings, $4,000; sapphire and diamond ring, $4,000; diamond and platinum bar pin, $4,000; diamond-studded watch, $2,000.

These jewels and several other pieces were insured at Samuels, Cornwall & Stevens, No. 84 William street, New York, for $50,000. Other stolen pieces which were not insured bring the value of the gems up to more than $75,000.

On the evening of August 7, Mrs. McMillan wore several pieces of jewelry, among them the pearl necklace. After dinner she complained of feeling tired and told her maid, Miss Beachy, that she would retire early.

Miss Beachy attended to the safety of her mistress' jewels, and accordingly she placed the necklace and other pieces in the safe, of which she knew the combination.

The safe is in a compartment of a large carved wood cabinet, which stands in the bathroom which opens off Mrs. McMillan's bedroom. In a drawer of the cabinet was a slip of paper on which was written the combination of the safe.

President Going to Game

EXPECT GREECE TO FIGHT

WILSON TO SEE 2ND CONTEST

President Wilson, it was given out in Washington today, will attend the second game of the World's Series between the Red Sox and the Philadelphias, at Philadelphia on Saturday.

Secretary Tumulty and Dr. Cary T. Grayson, the President's physician, will make the trip. Some of the cabinet members are expected to go along also.

The party will leave Washington for Philadelphia Saturday morning and return to Washington immediately after the game.

New York's Broadway has made Alexander a five to four favorite to beat the Red Sox in Friday's opening game of the big series.

That price is plentiful. Sports along the Great White Way don't as much as hint that the Carrigan entrant is going to come to grief in the big show, but so far as the maiden mariner goes they figure Alexander the winner and are laying a little odds on him.

No political or stage celebrity, not even William Jennings Bryan when he quit President Wilson's cabinet, or Harry Thaw when he was turned loose, or Eva Tanguay or Trixie Friganza or any other renowned personage ever took the space in the Metropolitan papers to the extent that Alexander did yesterday.

Killed Trying to Get on Train at Woburn

Roswell C. Skiff, seventy-one, of No. 32 Green street, Woburn, died today at the Choate Memorial Hospital. Early today he fell between the cars as he attempted to board a train at Woburn Highland. He picked himself up, said he was uninjured and started to walk home.

Later he collapsed and was taken to the hospital. Mr. Skiff lived with a daughter, Mrs. Charles H. Robinson. He was on his way to visit another daughter, Mrs. A. N. Waldman of New Milford, Ct.

Palmer Speaks for Militia for Defence

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—America's motto should be: "Trust in God and keep your powder dry," declared David J. Palmer, past commander-in-chief of the G. A. R., opening the first session of the National Defence Conference here today. He made a strong argument for a larger army and said that the State militia should be an important part of the national defence.

Bishop Codman Operated Upon; Condition Grave

Bishop Robert Codman of the Maine Episcopal diocese was operated on today at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital because of an illness contracted during the second week of his honeymoon.

Immediately after the operation, it was said that his condition was very serious, and his sister, Miss C. A. Codman of Westwood, and his bride, hurried to the hospital.

Bishop Codman, who is fifty-six years old, was married less than a month ago to Margaretta Biddle Porter of Philadelphia. He and his bride went for a honeymoon along the Maine coast on his yacht.

After two weeks he was taken ill and about a week ago was forced to come to Boston for treatment.

Ministers at Work Building a Tabernacle

PAWTUCKET, R. I., Oct. 4.—Scores of prominent citizens, including most of the Protestant pastors of this city, began today the erection of a tabernacle for revival services under the direction of Rev. Ora Samuel Gray and Edward Weeden.

Everyone on the job, including the ministers, is doing actual work with his hands. The ministers, however, have the practical assistance of many real carpenters. Henry Vigeant, a contractor and a burding inspector of Pawtucket, is in charge. About 150 men are at work, all without pay.

When they started work this morning a strike was called of the volunteer union men on the job. It was claimed that by volunteering to work for nothing the men violated union principles. The men returned to work in an hour.

Lewiston Fans Send Appeal to Curley

The "Bill Carrigan Rooters" of Lewiston, 260 strong, today appealed to Mayor Curley to help them get special rates from the Boston & Maine Railroad, for a special train to come here to root for the Red Sox at the first game of the World's Series in this city. Mayor Lewis J. Brann of Carrigan's home city forwarded the appeal, which Mayor Curley immediately laid before the Boston & Maine officials.

Typus and Cholera Ravages in Serbia

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—"Between 135,000 and 150,000 persons in Serbia have perished from typhus and the cholera," said Dr. Richard P. Strong of Harvard Medical School, who arrived today on the Italian liner Duca Degli Abruzzi.

TWO AUTO DEATHS; 4 HURT

NEW BEDFORD, Oct. 4.—Two persons—a girl and a man—were killed and four other persons were injured in automobile accidents in these section early today.

In one of the fatalities the offending automobile sped on its way without stopping to learn the fate of its victim.

The State police, as well as the local departments, are searching for the driver of the automobile. The only clew they have is a piece of the fender of the automobile, which was knocked off in the crash. Policemen, garage men and the public generally are asked to promptly report to the police any automobile with its fender damaged.

The first accident occurred in the Spring Hill section of Sandwich. Ernest Spofford, twenty-two, was killed, and Russell Clark, twenty-four, was seriously injured. They were riding a motorcycle toward Osterville, where they are employed, when a huge car coming in the opposite direction and on the wrong side of the road crashed into them.

Both men were tossed many feet, and without stopping the auto continued on its way. The noise of the crash awakened the people on the Henry Hoxie farm. They administered first aid and called a doctor, who started with the injured men to the New Bedford Hospital, thirty miles away. While passing through Wareham, Spofford died.

At Lake Appawanseit, Lakeville, Miss Mary Athey, clerk in a New Bedford department store, was killed when the automobile in which she was riding struck a telegraph pole and plunged into the lake.

Murray O'Neil, an automobile dealer, suffered a broken arm and Mark E. Sullivan, a well-known New Bedford contractor, was seriously injured. Another girl, whose name is not known, also suffered from a broken arm. They were all in the same car with Miss Athey.

Many Americans Stranded at Sydney

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Scores of American citizens both men and women, are in a destitute condition in Sydney, Australia, according to consular report received at the State Department from that city today. The Americans went to Australia without getting certain of employment and without taking passports, making doubly hard the task of getting them back to the United States.

School Peace Medal Awarded President

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—President Wilson this afternoon was presented a medal awarded him by the American School Peace League. Mrs. S. P. Andrews, secretary of the league, made the presentation and stated that the medal was awarded because of the President's work in the recent controversy with Germany.

French Airmen Bombard Metz and Suburbs

PARIS, Oct. 4.—Metz, the mightiest German fortress on the western frontier, has been bombarded by an armada of French aeroplane. It was officially announced today by the French War Office. Forty shells were dropped upon the railway station and military works at Sablon, one of the suburbs of Metz.

One of the forts in the great girdle of defensive works encircling Metz is at Sablon.

The Metz raid is an important operation in the great air offensive which the allies are keeping up to cripple Germans lines of communication.

Ministers Plead for Armenians

The Boston Congregational ministers at their meeting today in Pilgrim Hall, sent the following to Secretary Lansing:

"The ministers of the Congregational Churches of Boston and vicinity urge you take such steps as your knowledge and wisdom dictate, to secure the immediate cessation of the awful atrocities which have been for some time and are at present being perpetrated upon the Armenian people of Turkey."

Johnson's Grandniece White House Caller

RUSSIA IS READY TO MOVE ON BULGARS

By International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—That Bulgaria will plunge into the war as an ally of Germany within forty-eight hours, and be closely followed by Greece on the side of the allies, is the opinion of war experts in view of today's news from the Balkans.

A Petrograd dispatch says that part of the Russian Black Sea fleet has left Odessa under sealed orders. It is believed that the ships have gone to make a demonstration off the Bulgarian coast. They were fully armed and equipped for war service.

The official organ of the Greek government at Athens says that the landing of French troops at Salonika is for the purpose of assisting Greece.

A news agency dispatch from Athens says that a state of siege was proclaimed at Athens and Piraeus on Sunday. Piraeus is the port of Athens.

Italian troops may participate in the campaigns in the Balkans. Sir Ian Hamilton, commander-in-chief of the British forces at the Dardanelles, has approved the arrangements made at Salonika for the care of the allies' troops landed there.

RUSSIAN ARMY AND NAVY ARE READY TO STRIKE AT BULGARIA

Sharp skirmishes have occurred between Serbian and Bulgarian outposts near Belocradzkik, it is reported in a dispatch received at Paris. The fighting took place in the mountains on the frontier, not far from the railway line running to Nish.

According to reliable information, 100,000 German troops have been moved from Bukowina to the Serbian frontier and there now are several hundred thousand men stationed in Hungary between Panesova, Weisskirchen and Versecz.

A dispatch from Petrograd states that M. Savinsky, the Russian minister to Bulgaria, has prepared to leave Sofia this evening, having no hope that the Russian ultimatum would receive a favorable answer, if any at all, from King Ferdinand's government.

Russia has prepared to attack Bulgaria by land and by sea. Part of the Russian Black Sea fleet has been mobilized to attack the Bulgarian ports of Varna, Burgas and Aktebal.

Six hundred thousand troops have been mobilized at Odessa for a campaign against Bulgaria.

PRESSURE ON ROUMANIA.

Extreme pressure is being brought to bear against Roumania by the Teutonic allies to compel her to remain neutral, but this is being combatted by equal pressure from the entente powers.

Roumania lies between Bulgaria and Russia, and in order to put any army upon Bulgarian soil, Russian troops would have to penetrate Roumanian territory unless they were sent by transport, which would be a dangerous and tedious operation.

A powerful Austro-German army has been massed upon the Danube, near the Roumanian frontier, in order to oversee the Roumanian government. Most of these troops, as well as a majority of the 2,000 guns that support them, have been drawn from Poland and Galicia.

It is reported that Field Marshal von Mackensen of the German army has been selected to direct operations of the Austro-German and Bulgarian troops in their drive through Serbia to Turkey.

Athens reports that the German general staff has selected Wednesday for the opening of the great offensive against Serbia.

All the first break Bulgaria faces attacks from three quarters:

First—On the Black Sea coast by the Russian fleet.

Second—On the Aegean Sea littoral, at Dedeagadch, where part of the Anglo-French fleet is lying off the coast;

Third—On the Greek frontier near Strumnitza.

The entente powers are reported to have made preparations for the landing of a big force at Salonica for a drive against Southern Bulgaria.

While Bulgaria holds the centre of the stage the interest in the future actions of Greece and Roumania is only slightly less keen. Confident expressions that both these countries will intervene on the side of the allies were heard here. In this case Bulgaria would be surrounded on three sides by enemies.

RUSSIA ALLIES' AGENT.

The Russian ultimatum shows that Russia was delegated by the entente powers to deal with Bulgaria. Russia's demands are that Bulgaria shall send away the Austro-German soldiers that have joined the Bulgarian army and break off her intimate relations with Germany and Austria.

A Sofia despatch to the Frankfurter Zeitung states that King Ferdinand of Bulgaria has put his private car at the disposal of German Ambassador von Wagenheim on his return to Constantinople. The Bulgarian king extended the same courtesy to Prince Hohenlohe on his return to Germany from Turkey.

A Reuter telegram received today from Sofia quotes the following despatch put out by the Bulgarian News Agency under date of September 20:

"We are authorized to deny that German officers have arrived in Sofia and are taking charge of the army and railways. We are also authorized to deny a report attributed to Premier Radoslavoff that Bulgaria is receiving $10,000,000 a month from Germany."

An Athens dispatch says: Premier Venezelos has arrived at Salonika on a political mission concerning Bulgaria's menacing attitude toward Serbia and Greece. Bulgarian desertions are assuming grave proportions, says a dispatch from Nish. Mutiny is threatened in the Bulgarian army.

FURTHER PROGRESS REPORTED BY THE ALLIES IN ARTOIS

PARIS, Oct. 4—Further progress has been achieved by the allies in Artois. French trench-to-trench fighting is proceeding in the woods of Givenchy and around Hill 119, north of Arras. An important road centre, where five highways converge, has been taken.

Violent cannonades are in progress on the front. South of Arras severe fighting has developed in the Region of Quennevieres.

VIOLENT TRENCH FIGHTING.

The text of the official communique follows:

"North of Arras our progress continues in the Givenchy wood and at Hill 119, where we have occupied a place at the junction of five roads.

"Almost continuous trench to trench fighting, accompanied by cannonades on both sides, has been going on in the region of Quennevieres and Navron.

"In the Champagne an artillery duel occurred last night on the outskirts of the Navarin farm.

"Two German counter attacks to the north of Le Mesnil were repulsed.

"On the remainder of the front the night was calm.

"One of our air squadrons dropped forty shells of large calibre on the Sablon railway station at Metz.

"Other aviators have continued to bombard the railway junction points and stations behind the German front."

The allies have lost some machines and some of the bravest airmen in the service have been killed or captured, but it is ordered by Field Marshal Sir John French and General Joffre that the German lines of communication must be crippled, so the work is going on.

This is the tenth day of the great battle and the end is not yet in sight. In fact Sir John French describes the operations of the past week as "the fight phase."

Both King George and President Poincare have spoken words of the highest praise for the valor of the French and British allies. The great drive, however, has been costly. Thousands of wounded are being brought back from the front, and the general staff is establishing scores of new hospitals.

Hundreds of the wounded are being taken to England on every transport that leaves Boulogne and Havre.

Second Lawrence Death from Water

BERLIN CLAIMS ALLIES LOST NEARLY 200,000 IN BIG DRIVE

BERLIN, via Amsterdam, Oct. 4.—The allies lost 190,000 in killed wounded and prisoners in the recent fighting in Artois and Champagne, according to German estimates issued today. The French lost 130,000 and the British 60,000, it was stated. The German losses are placed at less than one-fifth of those total.

The German General Staff asserts that General Joffre planned to force the Germans to retire over the entire front, whereas the biggest gain of the allied troops was fifteen miles.

"This result was due chiefly to asphyxiating gases used by the French," says the General Staff. "By no stretch of the imagination can the successes of the allies be called a brilliant victory, notwithstanding the fact that they had help from most of the munition factories of the world, including those in the United States."

British warships are again shelling the German positions on the North Sea coast.

The German naval base at Zeebrugge, Belgium, was bombarded by a squadron of British monitors on Sunday, it was officially announced today by the German War Office.

Further progress has been made by the Germans in their counter attacks against the British near Loos, but it is admitted that the French succeeded in their attacks on Givenchy Heights, in getting a firm foothold in the Ger-

EYEWITNESS SAYS GENERAL ATTACK BY ALLIES HAS FAILED

Exclusive Cable Service of the Boston American and La Nacion of Buenos Aires.

(The dispatch presented here is the first to reach the Americas from a neutral eyewitness of the great battle.)

MONTMOIS, Sept. 25.—The allies' combined general attack has failed. Today I was present at a battle at a place in Champagne, twenty-five miles from Massiges, where the French tried to drive a wedge from the south toward the east. The trenches were occupied by German territorials in order to leave the line regiments free for action.

A cannonade more terrific than anything hitherto known in the world's history started on September 22 and continued uninterruptedly for fifty hours. The earth trembled for nearly forty miles around under the roar of thousands of cannon fired on an average of thirty shells per minute.

On the 24th, while the battle was raging along the whole line from the ocean to Switzerland, column upon column of allied troops stormed the German lines with great bravery. They came on in double waves. Each column was formed into two lines with an interval of about thirty yards.

MOWED DOWN ALLIES.

The first German trenches were entirely destroyed by the artillery fire, but from the German second line the attacking columns were literally mowed down by the fire of the territorials and the reserve. Thus the attack failed.

"Only between Tahure and Herron did the French break the German line on a front of two miles and a half to four miles, penetrating to the depth of about two miles. The French losses were enormous. Great ridges of dead covered the foreground. A wall of French bodies was thrown up parallel to the German trenches.

"I have spoken to several French officers who were made prisoners and all tell of the fearful losses. Of one battalion only four officers and 108 men were left.

"The English attacked at the same time from the west, north of Arras, under the same conditions.

"The purpose of this double attack was to force the Germans to retire or to cut off the whole angle of the German line, which has its apex before Souchons.

CRITICAL MOMENT FOR GERMANS.

"This plan failed, notwithstanding the extensive preparation and bravery with which the attacks were made.

"Possibly new attempts will be made, but no success seems impossible. The critical moment for the Germans on the west front has passed. The offensive of the allies seems wrecked. This is probably the last supreme effort to bring into combination all the available moral and material forces of the allies. It must have cost them more than 100,000 dead and wounded."

PILGRIMS HAVE GOVERNOR AS LUNCH GUEST

Governor Walsh was the guest of honor at the Pilgrim Publicity Association's "Eight Bells Lunch" today, and he spoke on "What Massachusetts Has to Advertise."

During the luncheon it was announced that the association has prepared and will send to Governor Arthur Capper of Kansas—a newspaper man—a scrapbook containing the clippings dealing with the recent Governors' Conference in Boston. Governor Walsh wrote an appropriate sentiment on the flyleaf of the book.

The Governor was given a great ovation at the luncheon. He was introduced by President George B. Gallup as a "good advertising man."

The Governor said a good advertising man and a good public official must have many things in common. He passed on to his topic, "What Massachusetts Has to Advertise." The historic spots of Massachusetts, he said, have become shrines. The history of the State is its best advertisement.

He pointed to its industrial opportunities as unrivalled, then took up the humanitarian labor laws.

"Our laws are far advanced," he said. "Some say this constitutes a handicap for our manufacturers. If this is true, the remedy is not to repeal our good laws, but to educate competing States till they adopt the measures we have found beneficial."

Light and Earnings

A PROPOSITION

CASE I. IN MANUFACTURING, satisfactory earnings depend upon steady and continuous operation at full efficiency throughout the ENTIRE working day.

The last hours of operation come during the period of fading daylight, which result ordinarily in lessened efficiency of the employee, a general slowing up of the production, a deterioration in quality of work and, in the case of factory and shop work, an increase in the amount of stock spoiled and in the number of accidents.

Good artificial lighting is therefore absolutely essential to proper dividends, and—

Of all artificial lighting, GAS LIGHT IS BEST.

CASE II. IN MERCHANDISING, the best sales are often made during the closing hours of the day. The store well and pleasantly lighted, which displays its wares to the best advantage, cannot fail to attract at least its fair share of the buying. The securing of these late-hour sales may well mean the entire dividend.

Again, good lighting is the absolute essential.

Let us provide this dividend security.

While GAS LIGHT IS BEST, it at the same time COSTS LEAST.

Let us show you what the new Welsbach Semi-Indirect System or what the really remarkable Gas Arc will do for you. A postal or a telephone call will bring a representative.

MINISTER'S WIFE SAYS SHE WAS DESERTED

Mrs. Julia Barber Garland, who left her home in Quincy five months ago, the bride of the Rev. John L. Garland of the Gilbert Memorial Church of Georgetown, Ct., is home again, deserted, she claims, by her husband after discovery by his church trustees of habits to which they objected.

Mrs. Garland declares that charges were made that their minister gambled on ball games, that he was borrowing considerable sums in Georgetown, and that he owed the grocer, the baker and other stores, a total indebtedness of about $2,800. The charges were made at the meeting of the trustees a week ago Thursday.

The minister was informed the following Sunday that they did not care to listen to a sermon, but he could come before them Thursday and explain, if he liked. Tuesday morning, Mrs. Garland says, he borrowed $20 and took a train away from there.

Mrs. Garland returned to Quincy, where she is now living with her sister, Mrs. J. L. Merrill of Wollaston.

"All that I can find that my minister son-in-law ever bought for the parsonage in Georgetown," said Mr. E. A. Barber, Mrs. Garland's father, "is an oil stove—and I paid for that."

JUST "TOOK A TRAIN."

"Oh, he was the slickest ever," supplemented youthful Mrs. Garland.

"Is it true that Mr. Garland left hurriedly, Tuesday?" they were asked.

"Oh, yes," father and daughter replied in unison. "John borrowed $20 and took a train."

"I do not know what my husband did with the money he borrowed," continued Mrs. Garland. "Apparently he left town rather than face questions about that."

"It is reported that" Rev. Mr. Garland left behind him debts amounting to $1,700," was suggested.

"Oh, we've been doing some more figuring," Mr. Barber said. "The total now is about $2,500."

"No, it's exactly $2,712.38," Mrs. Garland exclaimed after she had consulted a memorandum.

"But it may be more," her father supplied sadly. "I paid the boy who brought the paper here every morning fifty-nine cents, and I paid the washwoman and"—

AFRAID THEY'D LOSE HIM.

"Oh, yes," Mrs. Garland cried. "He was being paid $20 a week with the parsonage thrown in, with a promise of $25 a week next year and more raises after that. Why the people here were so fond of him they were afraid they couldn't keep him. They thought he had such a brilliant future that New York would take him away from them. They were scared to death about it."

"Is it true that someone stood up at the trustees' meeting and said your husband bet on a baseball game in Boston and lost $100?" was asked.

"Yes, but he didn't admit it was that sum. He just said he bet on a baseball game like anyone else.

"You mustn't get a wrong impression. Everybody liked him. He was so jolly and broadminded. Why, he smoked more cigars than any one else in town. But if I ever marry again I will not pick a minister."

Allard Meets Classes.

NICE LITTLE GIRL IN 'TWIN BEDS' IS MADGE KENNEDY

Madge Kennedy, who is playing in "Twin Beds" at the Park Square Theatre.

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

"Isn't she a nice little girl?"

You hear the folks who have seen "Twin Beds" saying this as they leave the Park Square Theatre, and they are talking about Madge Kennedy.

The show manager, whom you approach to arrange a stitle interview with Miss Kennedy, remarks that she's a nice little girl. So does the cloakroom matron through whose sanctum you pass on your way to the stage from the front of the house.

So does the stage manager. Miss Kennedy, on and off the stage is evidently a nice little girl. She was on the stage when I arrived in the wings, but the first act came to an end in a moment and the actors came off.

Miss Kennedy was arrayed in a light evening gown because the first act is an evening party. It was one of those cold, raw days, and she didn't hesitate to shiver. Before the footlights she had been pretending to be comfortable for half an hour.

"It is kind of cold here, isn't it?" she said after we had been introduced. Miss Kennedy is one of those girls who verbally underlines her words when she talks, and yet doesn't gush. She is a perfect ingenue, on and off the stage.

SHE IS INGENUOUS.

She waited around for me to say something, and I waited to see what she would say. Most actresses have a regular system of putting the interviewer at ease, and then spilling a lot of beautiful thoughts which they have memorized in case an interviewer should pop out on them suddenly. Miss Kennedy just looked distressed.

"I'm awful sorry that I can't think of anything to say for publication," she began. I felt just like saying: "Well, don't let it worry you, little girl. It doesn't matter."

That's the charm of girls like Miss Kennedy. They are so little and appealing and sweet, that you want to reach out and protect them. I suppose Madge Kennedy could count her would-be protectors by the thousand.

We finally got started talking. I found that she is just the kind of girl off stage that she plays in "Twin Beds," not so foolish of course. There is nothing silly about her really, but she is sweet, ingenuous and nice.

"I have a lovely little apartment where I live with my mother at Charlesgate East," she said. "It faces the Fenway and is very comfortable.

SHORT STAGE CAREER.

"Do you keep a dog?"

"Oh, no. But I did have a dear little dog when we lived in California. Only its dead now."

"What happened to it. Trolley car?"

"No. It died of old age. It was fifteen years old. We felt terribly and haven't had one since. I was sixteen then. I hadn't gone on the stage.

"Have you been on the stage long? I asked artfully.

"Not very long. I played in stock with Tully Marshall in Cleveland for a season. Then I got into "Little Miss Brown." That ran a season. I was fortunate enough to be chosen to create the role of the wife in "Twin Beds," and have been in it ever since."

Miss Kennedy was twisting her wedding ring around her finger.

"Do you wear it only on the stage?" I asked.

"Oh, yes," said Miss Kennedy. "I am not married. I forgot to wear it in the third act once, and several ladies in the audience were very much shocked. So I always wear it now."

Just then the bell rang for the second act. Miss Kennedy could not conceal her joy. "I've got to go now. I'm so sorry I couldn't give you a good interview. I hope some other time to talk about lots of things."

And she was gone.

EUGENIA TO WED; THEN 'GOODBY BROADWAY'

By International News Service.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Eugenia Kelly, the twenty-year-old heiress whose Broadway escapades have kept her in the public eye for a long while, declared today that she was determined to marry "Al" Davis despite parental objection. Davis recently brought suit against Miss Kelly's mother for $50,000 alleging that Mrs. Kelly had called him "a love pirate" and a "tango parasite."

"Mr. Davis expects to have his divorce decree in November and then we are going to get married in New Jersey," said Eugenia. "That means goodby to Broadway for both of us. We have taken a house at Williston, Long Island, where we are going to live.

"We are going to raise dogs and horses for a living. Al is not marrying me for my money; he wants only me."

Mrs. Kelly has announced through her counsel that she is determined to take steps to save "Eugenia from herself."

Davis is nearly forty years old and was formerly a professional tango dancer in Broadway cabarets, where he met Miss Kelly.

Says the mother: "So now she says that I introduced her to Davis. Said it was I who hurried her from the cradle to the cabaret, that I am responsible for the fact she never knew the doll-dressing and mud-pie making stage of childhood.

"How cruel. I never introduced her to this man Davis. He forced himself upon me. I tried to ignore him. But he came uninvited to the box. I occupied at the horse shows. Some one of his friends, heavens knows who, became acquainted with Eugenia and presented him to my daughter.

"Since then whatever control I had over her has vanished. I did all a mother could do to keep her from drink. I wanted her to be a simple-minded girl, and I would now give my life to see her married to a good man.

"And she says I have used her money for my own expenses. What stories of child hustling. My books are open to any one who believes her. Does she forget the courts looked over my books and complimented me on my administration of her estate?

"I'd like to brand this Davis for the rest of his life. I'd like to use a razor-blade on him so that his face would be scarred."

Mother with Babe in Arms in Court

Mrs. Ellen Donnelly appeared with a three-months'-old baby on her arm in the Roxbury Court today to answer to two charges of larceny. It is charged that she stole some sheets from one woman and baby carriage from another and sold it. She was held in $300 after pleading not guilty.

George Edwardes Dead in London

By the International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—George Edwardes, one of the best-known theatrical producers in the world, died today. For years he was manager of the Gaiety, where he staged many popular musical comedies. Mr. Edwardes was also noted for his ability to find beautiful chorus girls, many of whom married into the nobility.

JURY IS CHOSEN FOR WARREN TRIAL

The impanelling of the jury that will decide the fate of Charles E. Warren, an Allston chauffeur, accused of first degree murder, was completed in the Superior Criminal Court at East Cambridge today, after 74 of a venire of 140 had been examined.

The jurors are: Sidney C. Blanchard of Winchester, John J. Cody of Stoneham, I. Pierce Sewall of Concord, Edward L. Baldwin of Winchester, William H. Fernald of Groton, Charles E. Sherwin of Ayer, Edward C. Brooks of Medford, George W. Mason of Medford, Charles W. Mason of Ayer, William G. McIntyre of Lowell, William T. Phelan of Cambridge and Michael J. Conroy of Belmont.

Charles E. Sherwin, an Ayer merchant, was chosen foreman of the jury by the Court.

Warren is charged with having shot and killed Walter G. Green, proprietor of a Newton restaurant, on June 5, when Ruby Stewart, a waitress, was wounded. Albert E. Lewis and Joseph Abbott are Warren's counsel.

The jury visited the scene of the murder this afternoon.

Roosevelt Says He Killed Moose in Self-Defence

QUEBEC, Oct. 4.—How Colonel Roosevelt had to break the game laws of Quebec on his recent visit here and kill an extra moose in order to save his own life, is told in an affidavit sworn to by himself and his two guides before a notary of St. Raymond and connected with the fish and game branch in the local Parliament building.

According to the statements, the Colonel had already killed the one moose allowed him by law and was returning with his two guides in a canoe, when they sighted another moose at some distance. The animal attempted to charge when the canoe came near, the Colonel and his guides being forced to put to deep water.

Colonel Roosevelt, thinking to scarce the moose, fired over its head, but this only seemed to infuriate the animal. The way home lay through a small stream connecting two lakes, and shortly before they came to this the moose disappeared into the bush.

However, as the canoe was half way down the stream, the animal appeared in front of it. The water at this spot was only about a foot deep, and the moose began his charge at about thirty feet distant.

Colonel Roosevelt fired over the animal's head, despite the shout of the guides, who were urging him to kill it. The moose kept on and then the ex-President, realizing that it was either his life or that of the angry beast, fired again and struck the latter in the chest at about eighteen feet away. The moose slowed up for a moment, but came on again, and this time the Colonel put a shot through his head and brought him down.

All Ships Soon May Carry the Wireless Phone

Hereafter every ship can have a telephone, in the opinion of the officials of the American Telephone Company, who have been at work for six months perfecting a practicable wireless telephone.

The recent conversations over a distance of more than four thousand miles, from New York to San Francisco, have made the telephone a reality, they believe.

A wireless telegraph operator is an expensive luxury; but anybody can operate the wireless telephone.

Mrs. Batchelder to Fight Divorce

WORCESTER, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Harriet Batchelder, whose $15,000 alienation suit against Louise M. B. Hartley was followed by the filing of a suit for divorce by Judge Clark A. Batchelder of the Fitchburg Police Court, today served notice she would contest the divorce suit.

Rhodes Tests Open Tomorrow.

The qualifying examinations for the Rhodes scholarships will be held in the administration building of the Harvard Medical School tomorrow and Wednesday.

TROTH BROKEN, LYNN GIRL MAY BE SUICIDE

A broken engagement with a well-known Lynn young man is the reason advanced today for the mysterious disappearance and several attempts at suicide of Miss Edith Broughton of No. 8 Congress street, Lynn.

Today it developed that Miss Broughton was engaged for nearly three years to this young man, but that last Summer, the engagement was broken off. Members of the family where she boarded say that immediately after the broken engagement Miss Broughton began to brood over her troubles.

One day they say she remained by the shores of Sluice Pond for 24 hours trying to make up her mind to drown herself. Last Tuesday she tried to commit suicide at the home of her sister, Mrs. Evelyn Clemens, No. 18 Holland street, by shutting herself up in the bath room and tupping on the gas.

She was found just in time and taken to the Lynn Hospital, from which she was released Thursday, only to promptly disappear.

The police have been asked to drag the Lynn ponds today for her body.

Signs Minneapolis Will Remain "Wet"

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 4.—The question of wiping out the 400 saloons in Minneapolis was being voted on today, after one of the hottest political campaigns in the history of the city. The indications were that Minneapolis would cast a majority in favor of remaining wet, and thus carry the entire county, which is voting under the county option law.

Cavalryman Killed on Sentry Duty

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 4.—Private Patrick J. Sullivan, of the Third United States Cavalry, was murdered early today while doing sentry duty on the banks of the Rio Grande, near Fort Brown. The military authorities believe that the murder was committed by Mexicans. Sullivan's head was crushed and he had two knife stabs in the back.

GENERAL STRIKE THREATENED AT PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 4.—President O. L. Preble of the machinists' union may call a strike of the 1,000 employes of the Builders' Iron Foundry, unless it grants an eight-hour day and an increase of wages. The concern is making machinery to be used in manufacturing guns for Russia.

President Preble said today after a meeting of the Providence Central Federated Union that a resolution had been adopted calling for a general strike in Providence. The federated union represents 15,000 union men. The failure of the machinists' strike to tie up the plant of Brown & Sharpe, it understood to be the cause of the appeal to the federated union.

The executive committee will meet tomorrow night to decide on a course of action under last night's vote.

The employes of the Gorham Manufacturing Company's silverware plant, numbering 2,500, were addressed by international labor leaders, who urged them to demand an eight-hour day.

CUT THIS OUT

OLD ENGLISH RECIPE FOR CATARRHAL DEAFNESS AND HEAD NOISES.

If you know of some one who is troubled with Catarrhal Deafness, head noises or ordinary catarrh, cut out this formula and hand it to them and you will have been the means of saving some poor sufferer perhaps from total deafness. Dr. Knight of London states for a long time past have recognized that catarrh is a constitutional disease and necessarily requires a constitutional treatment.

Sprays, inhalers and nose douches are liable to irritate the delicate air passages and force the disease into the middle ear, which frequently means total deafness, or else the disease is driven down the throat and contracted to the lungs. Dr. Knight's treatment is progressive, following formula, which is used extensively in the home Knights treatment is a constitutional treatment, and should prove especially effective to sufferers here who live under more favorable climate conditions.

Secure from your Druggist 1 ounce of Parmint (Double strength). Take this home and add to it ¼ pint of hot water and 4 ounces of granulated sugar; stir until dissolved. Take one tablespoonful four times a day. This will often bring quick relief from distressing head noises. Clogged nostrils should open, breathing become easy and hearing improve as the inflammation in the eustachian tubes is reduced. Parmint is used in this way, as it acts directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system and has a tonic effect, making it unnecessary to stay in the house. The preparation is easy to make, costs little and is pleasant to take. Every person who has catarrh should give this treatment a trial.—Advertisement.

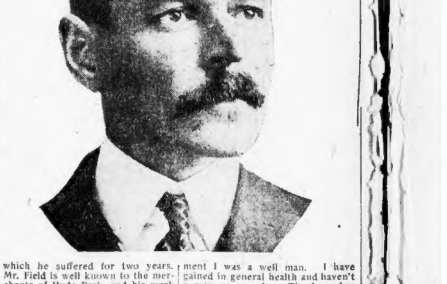
JOINTS WERE BENT AND STIFF FROM RHEUMATIC ARTHRITIS

Hyde Park Man Tells How Knee Straightened After Using Var-ne-sis



Mr. A. Field of 98 Dana Ave., Hyde Park, Mass., has been kept busy during the past few months explaining how he recovered from rheumatism of the joints, from which he suffered for two years. Mr. Field is well known to the merchants of Hyde Park, and his work necessitates him jumping on and off a wagon delivering goods to the stores.

Mr. Field said: "My friends are surprised at my recovery when they see me jumping on and off the wagon without any trouble. For two years I suffered from rheumatism of the joints, my hip was sore and painful so that it was impossible to get any sleep. My knee was bent and I was unable to straighten it; in fact, I never believed it would be natural again; it was drawn up so much that I walked with a limp. It was almost impossible for me to go up or down stairs, on account of the stiffness and pain in the knees. My neck was also stiff and I could feel the disease was slowly drawing the cords stiff and tight.

"Very often the pain would start at the hip and run down to my toes. After sitting any length of time it was agony to get up.

"I tried many treatments without permanent benefit and thought the condition was incurable because so many told me I would never be better.

"Var-ne-sis was recommended as a rheumatic remedy and I thought I would try once more to find relief. I secured the medicine at a drug store, and after three months' treatment I was a well man. I have gained in general health and haven't a pain in any joint. The stiffness has gone back to its normal condition and I would never know I had rheumatism.

"Var-ne-sis is a wonderful remedy for rheumatism and I am recommending it to everyone suffering as I did."

No rheumatic can afford to ignore the tremendous evidence that stands behind Var-ne-sis. For rheumatism and particularly in chronic rheumatism of the joints it has been highly successful. Every day that a rheumatic sufferer puts off taking Var-ne-sis is just one more day of needless suffering. Send to W. A. Varney, Lynn, Mass., for the new edition of his newspaper devoted to rheumatics—will be ready tomorrow.

Var-ne-sis Boston office is maintained for the benefit of those taking Var-ne-sis and to exhibit the collection of crutches, wheel chairs, etc. No medicine is sold here. Consultation and advice is free—140 Boylston st.

Now Believe Mine Sank Hesperian

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4. — Naval officers assigned to examine pieces of metal said to have been found aboard the Atlas liner Hesperian before she sank off the Irish coast September 4, are virtually convinced that the vessel was wrecked by a mine. Their findings will be submitted to Secretary Daniels this week.

A PHYSICIAN'S FIRST STEP

When you are ill a physician's first step is to give a laxative, no matter what the trouble may be, because no medicine will take proper effect while waste is in the Lower Intestine.

If there were no waste there, you probably would not have been ill at all, because physicians agree that 95 per cent. of all human ills is due to the accumulation of waste matter in the Lower Intestine.

Enlightened physicians are now recommending Internal Baths by means of the "J. B. L. Cascade," and over 300,000 are already using it to keep their intestine free from waste always and with correspondingly better health, strength and efficiency.

Ask about it at the Riker-Jarnes Drug Stores in New England, who will send you an enlightening booklet, "Why Many Of Today Is Only 50 Per Cent. Efficient." It will be most interesting to you.—Advertisement.

RELATIONS WITH GERMANY NOT YET STRAINED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—Administration officials at the White House today made it plain that at present there is absolutely no tension in the negotiations under way between Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador, and Secretary of State Lansing. While no official statement was made on the situation, it was learned that the assurances that have been made by the German Ambassador are absolutely satisfactory so far as they have gone.

The President insists, however, that they be more specific. When Count von Bernstorff is told this, it is believed here that he will change them at once to conform to President Wilson's desires.

The next conference between Count von Bernstorff and Secretary Lansing will be held here Wednesday morning, it is believed.

Dr. Heaton Host to 50 Children from Nursery

Fifty or sixty small girls and boys belonging to the Cambridge Columbia Day Nursery were given an outing at the Point of Pines today, at the invitation of Dr. Thomas H. Heaton, whose summer cottage was opened to the children with their nurses.

Miss Ann Genness Hall and her assistant, Miss Catherine Coy, both from the Cambridge Training School for nurses, took charge of the children with other nurses, who accompanied the children in a large motor van that rolled joyfully over the long stretch of Revere boulevard, to the beach where the youngsters found delight digging in the sand.

2,000 OF BOSTON COLLEGE HEAR CARDINAL

More than 2,000 students of Boston College and it preparatory school listened to Cardinal O'Connell at the close of the mass of the Holy Ghost at the Church of the Immaculate Conception today. This marks the formal opening of schools.

The cardinal said in part:

"My dear young man, the first thought that you must get from my talk today is to yield yourselves readily to the atmosphere of this college. That is your bounden duty, and to yield yourselves generously. It must not be merely an impulse, it must be an everyday work and effort, and an all-day effort, so that after all the years that you pass in these sacred walls you will come out really transformed, mentally, spiritually.

"When I look out upon the sea of faces, and I think we are having a share in the formation of the character of the future Christianity and Catholicity of this great country, I am terrified with the responsibility and proud of the opportunity.

"Oh, may God grant the prayers of the church of this eautiful mass of the Holy Spirit, that His light may fill your minds, that His love may fill your hearts, and souls, that this year's work and study will be to you an enormous profit now and forever."

2,900,000 Bales of Cotton Ginned

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—A cotton report issued today shows 2,900,000 bales, counting round as half bales, ginned from the growth of 1915 to September 25, compared with 3,393,752 for 1914 and 3,245,655 for 1913.

The condition of the cotton crop on September 25 was 68.4 per cent. of a normal, the crop reporting board, Department of Agriculture, today estimated. This forecasts a yield per acre of 168 pounds, indicating a total production of 10,950,000 bales.

Three Killed in Auto and Train Accident

BALTIMORE, Oct. 4.—Three men, two unidentified, were killed early today, when their automobile was struck and wrecked by a New York-Washington express of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, near Leslie station.

The identified man is Elmer Gassaway, twenty-one, of this city, who was driving the machine.

109 Rescued from British Ship Ashore

CORUNNA, Spain, Oct. 4.—Twenty-nine passengers and eighty members of the crew of the British steamship Highland Warrior, that went ashore on Cape Prior, were saved today.

Fined for Lack of Auto Number.

John A. Robinson of No. 693 Columbia road, Dorchester, was fined $25 today in the Dudham court on a charge of operating an automobile without proper registration numbers.

"FRAMERS OF THE CONSTITUTION OF THE U.S.A." NO. 10

Robert Morris—"Financier of the Revolution"

IT HAS BEEN SAID the three very great men of our War for Independence were Washington, Franklin and Morris. In the history of mankind no man ever had a more arduous commission than did Morris in financing the armies of Washington. The credit of the nation was practically valueless, and time after time it was the personal credit of Morris which brought forth the money. The financial means raised from his own private resources made the victory at Trenton possible. When Washington proposed the capture of Lord Cornwallis and his entire army, it was from Morris, the patriot and private citizen, and not from the treasury of the Confederated States from which the money came. Thus Washington's last great victory was made possible, and the long and bloody struggle for National Independence brought to an end. Morris was the first to suggest our present system of National banks—the best banking system that any nation has ever known. He was the first American to send a ship forth flying the Stars and Stripes. Like Franklin he signed both the Declaration of Independence and the Constitution of the United States. He was very hospitable, and whenever Washington visited Philadelphia he was the guest of Morris. He was ever a moderate user of light wines and barley brews, and opposed Prohibition Laws, which make the many suffer for the faults of the few. For 58 years Anheuser-Busch have been brewing the kind of honest barley-malt and Saazer hop brews which the wisdom of Morris knew make for real temperance. To-day at the home of BUDWEISER, 7500 people are daily required to meet the natural public demand. BUDWEISER'S ever-increasing popularity comes from quality, purity, mildness and exquisite flavor. Its sales exceed any other beer by millions of bottles.

The Contest Plan

Each day, for 28 consecutive days, a picture will be printed in the Daily and Sunday American. Contestants must supply each picture with a title, using the title of a Movie Picture, that shall be most fitting and appropriate, describing it most completely or fitting it most perfectly. The one supplying the greatest number of such "most fitting and appropriate" titles shall earn the first award; the one supplying the next greatest number shall earn the next award, etc.

There will be no book of titles to buy. An official List of Movie Picture Titles will appear, the first list appearing with the first published picture, and then each week in the Sunday American during the contest. This list will be the standard for contestants to use in selecting the titles for the pictures appearing during that week beginning with each Sunday Official List Publication, and all titles selected for that week's pictures must be among those in and selected from this list.

What Movie Picture Title Does This Picture Represent?

Do NOT send title for this picture. It is only a sample. It represents the Movie Picture Title, "The Diamond from the Sky."

THE RULES :: Read Carefully, Then Save for Future Reference

1. The Boston American presents a Movie Picture Title Contest, which is a test of education, thought, skill and judgment.

2. The cash awards, 29 in number, will be to the value of $1,000.

3. Any resident of New England may compete except the employes of the Boston American, their relatives and families, and the members of the committee of Judges and their immediate families.

4. It costs nothing to enter the contest.

5. Each day, for 28 consecutive days, a picture will be printed in the Daily and Sunday American. Contestants must supply each picture with a title, using the title of a movie picture that shall be most fitting and appropriate, describing it most completely, or fitting it most perfectly. The one supplying the greatest number of such "most fitting and appropriate" titles shall earn the first award; the one supplying the next greatest number shall earn the next award, etc.

6. The winners will be decided by a committee of three judges, who will be well-known persons of recognized ability and character in the community and who will consider each title on its merits.

7. No contestant may submit more than five titles to each picture.

8. No titles will be adjudged as "most appropriate" until after the close of the contest. The "most fitting and appropriate" titles will be determined by the judges from among all the titles submitted by all contestants and only after all such titles submitted have been carefully examined. When the judges agree on a title regarded by them as the "most fitting and appropriate," their adjudication will be so considered on all contestants' lists. For example, if there were six different titles submitted for Picture No. 1, the judges will examine these six titles and decide which one submitted is "most fitting and appropriate" to Picture No. 1. If two or more titles submitted are equally "most fitting and appropriate" to any picture and superior to all others submitted, each of such equally fitting titles will be approved and credited as "most fitting and appropriate." In case of ties, the one who submits the least total number of titles, including those "most fitting and appropriate" and others, will earn the appropriate award. If there should still be a tie, the award shall be determined by the judges' decision of the superiority of the titles, taking into consideration originality, skill, judgment, as shown by the best understanding of the essential elements of the picture as typified by the title of the movie picture.

9. No person can win more than one award, and not more than one award will be awarded in any one family or household, or to persons residing at the same address, excepting non-relatives living at hotels, apartments or lodging houses. Fictitious names or addresses are not permitted, and their use will debar contestants. Collusion will bar contestants.

10. There will be no book of titles to buy. An official list of movie picture titles will appear, the first list appearing with the first published picture, and then, each week, in the Sunday American, during the contest. This list will be the standard for contestants to use in selecting the titles for the pictures appearing during that week beginning with each Sunday official list publication, and all titles selected for that week's pictures must be among those in and selected from this list. It is not necessary to buy the Boston American to obtain this official list, as it may be secured free upon application to the Contest Editor.

11. Titles may be sent in on a coupon which will be printed in the American, Daily and Sunday, or a copy of it. Each title must be attached to the picture or a copy of it. A picture (or a copy of it) must accompany each title submitted.

12. Contestants must NOT send in their titles before the contest ends. Titles sent in before the last picture printed will not be considered. Keep them from day to day and at the end of the contest arrange them in numerical order and send them in ALL TOGETHER AT ONE TIME.

13. All titles must be directed to the Boston American Contest Headquarters at No. 5 Winthrop Square, Boston, Mass., within the specified time limit, which will be announced later. The Boston American cannot be responsible for matter sent by mail and urges contestants who use the mail to send their packets by first-class registered mail. The Boston American will refuse titles on which postal charges are not prepaid.

14. As the awards will depend on the conscientious decision of the committee of judges, who will be prominent persons of the highest character, using their best judgment as they would if deciding on the best story or poem in a literary contest, their decision will be final.

15. Entering the contest is an acceptance of all rules now or hereafter to be made by the Sunday American or the committee of judges and the decision of either on any point shall be absolutely final.

Lonely Widower in Florida Wants Wife

Former Mayor John F. Hurley of Salem today received a letter from a Florida gentleman asking his aid in finding a wife. Ulysses S. Fisher is a lonely widower, forty-five, with a prosperous store and a nice home in Roseland, St. Lucie County, Fla. He wants a wife about his own age; she must have no impediments in the shape of children; she must have a fair education, be reasonably good looking and have at least a little property.

MERIDEN, Ct., Oct. 4.—International Silver Company employes in six factories in Meriden went on strike at 10 o'clock this morning.

BODY OF SUICIDE IN THE PUBLIC GARDEN

A negro walking through the Public Garden early today saw a man lying on his side near the Boylston-Charles street corner. Something in the man's position told the negro the truth, and he ran across Park square and into a lunch room, crying:

"There's a dead man in the Public Garden."

Elmer L. Picture of No. 675 Morton street, Mattapan, went to investigate, saw the negro was right, and hurried to the Lagrange street station. Through Captain Daly of headquarters the Back Bay station was notified and Sergeant J. C. Murphy and two patrolmen went to the Garden in the motor patrol.

They found the man was dead with a bullet hole in his temple and a revolver lying beside him. In the man's pockets were letters addressed to Rudolpho Ciute, of No. 5 Hull street. Medical Examiner Magrath announced the dead man had been identified as Ciute. There were also letters addressed to a sister, written in Italian and apparently explaining the suicide.

The dead man was well dressed. The revolver he used was of a foreign make, about 22 calibre, and carrying curiously shaped cartridges with bullets of a sharp-pointed, steel-jacketed, military pattern.

Mrs. Filomena Paccilo, landlady at No. 5 Hull street, said that a man named Ciute, a marble cleaner, had boarded at her house for eighteen months.

She said he was a Florentine. Thursday, she said, he went out to take his clothes to a tailor. Friday he took his laundry. He owed a month's rent, she said, but claimed he had a new job in Dorchester.

She said he had a revolver and cartridges.

Miners Voting on Rockefeller Plan

DENVER, Oct. 4.—Miners employed in the score of plants of the Colorado Fuel & Iron Company began voting today on the adoption of the industrial plan of John D. Berlin Cigars Go Up 10 Per Cent.

BERLIN, Oct. 4.—War, like the Winter's wind, seeks out every crack and cranny of man's creature comforts, and Berliners now believe that nobody is immune, for war prices have hit tobacco. Because of a shortage of tobacco, cigar dealers have planned to advance their prices ten per cent. The "makin's" also will cost more.

PANAMA CANAL SLIDE GAINING ON DREDGES

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4.—The great test of the Panama Canal construction now faces the engineers responsible for its maintenance. The slide north of Gold Hill is gaining on the dredges, seventy-six vessels, laden with valuable cargoes, are tied up on the Atlantic and the Pacific sides of the great waterway.

Today the last word from Colonel Harding, the acting Governor, is that it probably will be the latter part of this month before the canal can be reopened. This is the worst slump since the canal was opened, and on the manner in which the engineers solve it may depend the entire future of the ocean-to-ocean passage.

Officials suggest that the hopes of the engineers that the water would hold the earth back have proven unfounded. The result is that the dredges must continue operations until all of the loose earth is removed.

At both the War Department and the Canal Commission offices it was declared today everything possible was being done to solve the problem, and it also was pointed out that the slide, if it follows established precedent, may stop as speedily as it started.

THE THEATRE SEASON'S MOST BRILLIANT SOCIETY EVENT

A NOTE TO THE DISCRIMINATING THEATRE-GOER

Mr. Ames insisted that this dainty and mirthful piece of polite fooling, which ran one year in London and all last season in New York, be presented in Boston at this "intimate" theatre—and this theatre only.

SEATS NOW FOR EXTRA MAT. COLUMBUS DAY, OCT. 12.

AN APPEAL TO THE PUBLIC:

The undersigned respectfully submit the following facts to the theatregoers of Boston and vicinity:

At the Shubert Theatre we are presenting the most wonderful play in America, "EXPERIENCE," a great modern morality play dealing with the lessons of life.

It has been enthusiastically endorsed by the press, the public, the clergy, the state and municipal authorities.

Our contract with Mr. Lee Shubert for the Shubert Theatre expires October 23d.

A contract for another attraction was made by Mr. Shubert before he realized the tremendous success which "EXPERIENCE" was destined to score in Boston.

Now, when we are playing to capacity audiences at every performance, with hundreds of people clamoring for tickets, we must leave Boston unless—

Unless the public-spirited citizens of Boston protest.

If you, who have seen this play, believe every man, woman and child in New England should see "EXPERIENCE," then it is YOUR DUTY to at once send Mr. Shubert a letter or a telegram and ask him to arrange somehow, some way, to keep this great play in Boston.

Send your letter or telegram to Mr. Lee Shubert, care the Shubert Theatre, and tell him just why your friends MUST see this play.

Don't wait—do it today.

You will be doing this community a GREAT PUBLIC GOOD if you use your influence to keep "EXPERIENCE" in Boston.

ALEX FAVORITE TO WIN FIRST

The New York sporting editors went as far as to state that Grover would probably find it a difficult matter to win four games in the World's Series.

Three victories is as high as any box artist has gone thus far since the pennant winners in the National League and American League have commenced hitting it up in the Fall, and of all the hitchhaikin slab stars who have teed off in the big show Christie Mathewson, "Babe" Adams and Jack Coombs are the only ones putting over three conquests.

Always worshipping heroes, regardless of game or creed, gay Gotham is now raving over Alexander. It has been forced to pass up Christie Mathewson so it turned to Alexander.

Berry, Collins, Speaker, Henriksen, Pennock and Haley reported to Manager Carrigan in New York this morning. Heinie Wagner, who spent the week-end with his family at New Rochelle, also showed up.

The Red Sox are in New York for five games with the Yankees. They are to be crowded into three days, meaning twin bills today and Wednesday, so that Carrigan can take his warriors over to Philadelphia Wednesday evening and give them a work-out on the Phillies green Thursday, the day before the big show gets under way.

Carrigan stated early today that he had not picked his pitcher for the first game. He plans using Foster and Leonard against the Yankees on the Polo Grounds this afternoon. As Shore worked in the second game with the Senators in Washington Saturday, the indications are that the crack young right-hander was getting his workout for the World's Series then and there, that Foster and Leonard, Carrigan's other two dependables, will receive their trials today and that "General Bill" plans starting the series with Shore and coming back with either Foster or Leonard in the second Phila battle, using which ever hurler doesn't work in Quakerdom in the opener in Boston.

This is the eighth of a series of articles on the World's Series by Fullerton, the famous baseball statistician. Mr. Fullerton is recognized as one of the leading authorities on the national pastime and consequently baseball lovers cannot afford to miss a single article of this great series which will appear exclusively in the Boston AMERICAN. Here is the eighth of Mr. Fullerton's articles:

(A comparison of how Whitted of Philadelphia and Lewis of the Red Sox will perform in the World's Series.)

By HUGH FULLERTON.

With the comparative figures of Whitted and Lewis, left fielders of the rival teams, we reach the finish of the study of the regular teams, and with rather surprising results.

The fact that Philadelphia's outfield shows so well when studied in comparison with the famous Red Sox trio is astonishing, and shows that Moran's team has a lot of strength for which it has not been given credit. While the Red Sox outfigure the Phillies by a rather heavy margin both in the infield and the outfield, it is not enough to offset what advantage may be gained through comparison of pitchers alone. The Phillies are not outclassed. We find that their pitchers will have to pitch about 7 per cent. better ball than the Red Sox to equalize the difference in hitting power, and that the Saiders will have to do about 8 per cent. better than they do regularly to bring them to the Boston standard, unless the Red Sox fall off that much in their work.

Lewis.

The figures show neither team is likely to hit as hard as it does in season, because the opposing pitchers "dope out" to cut down its batting and reduce the attacking strength all round.

But to the final comparison of the regulars. There is a big surprise in those figures. You would not suspect that Whitted, cast off by the Boston Braves, ranks so closely up to Duffy Lewis this Fall that there is small choice between them. Neither did I until I studied the dope carefully and analyzed each man's work.

When you come to figure an individual ball player, you must make allowance for his disposition, if that tends either to enhance the value of his work or to detract from it.

Whitted Was Not Bothered By Criticism of Stallings.

Whitted is an odd ball player. He has disposition. Last year he was one of the most valuable of the Braves. He was the happy disposition, the fellow who turned serious situations into a joke, who laughed off rows between players, smoothed over difficulties, stood between some of the athletes and Stallings, often taking the scoldings of the irascible manager upon himself to shield some more sensitive person. Stallings used him when he wanted to vent his ire upon the team, and Whitted grinned and passed it off with a jest.

On the Phillies' team he has been invaluable in keeping up the team spirit during discouraging times. He has cheered the players, smoothed ruffled situations, stood between some of the athletes and Stallings, often taking the scoldings of the irascible manager himself to shield some more sensitive person. Stallings used him when he wanted to vent his ire upon the team, and Whitted grinned and passed it off with a jest.

Whitted Has Done Well Against Classy Pitching.

That is an interesting feature of doping these fellows. I took all the box scores of the season and sorted them in reference to number of runs made by the Red Sox—shut outs, one run, two runs, and so on. Then I studied through each man's record to see what kind of pitching he was hitting, and whether he hit the good ones, the bad ones, the left handers, and so on. There were some revelations in the process. Then I took the opponent's scores in the same order and studied the pitching of the Red Sox from that angle, studying what kind of batters hit them and what kind they fooled.

In that way one gets a pretty fair line on the ability of the men against all sorts and conditions of pitchers, and it will be a surprise to you to see how well Whitted has done against classy pitching.

Whitted ought to hit fairly well against Boston's pitchers, and be one of the chief contributors to Philadelphia's scoring. Not that he will hit hard, or that the Phils will score many runs, but he is liable to deliver that timely blow that may settle a close game.

Tomorrow we pass along to the catchers, and reach the more important stage of the dope.

BOSTON WOMAN DEFENDS TITLE

This morning the Longwood Cricket Club was the scene of the final match in the Women's singles fall tennis tourney. It was a challenge match, with Miss Edith Ketch of Boston, the present title holder, trying to retain her laurels, and Miss Nolla Ejurstedt, the Norwegian champion, attempting to wrest this honor away from Boston and to add it to her numerous other wins, principally in New York and Philadelphia, since her arrival in this country early this year.

Miss Bjurstedt showed her true form all day yesterday, as she competed in two final matches and one semi-final round, and played championship tennis in each.

Carrigan does not figure things that way. He sits down there on the bench and sees a lot of things that are forgotten by the "fans."

There was a time late this season when it seemed as if Lewis would be benched and that Hendriksen would get a steady job in left field. It was rumored through the American League that the change was certain, but it did not take place, as Lewis braced considerably in his work, especially in his hitting.

Lewis is not the greatest outfielder. He is scarcely above the average as a mechanical fielder, but he has strong points against his weak. His ability to throw and to cut off hard drives that go foul after crossing third base on the Boston grounds, and to retrieve the ball before it gets into that embarrassing corner, is one of his strong points which will come in handy even on the new Braves ground. He has nerve and courage in going against fences and stands for fly balls. He is inclined to make his worst breaks at the most important moments of games, possibly through ill luck, more probably through overanxiety to make the play. Every ball players calls this luck, but I have a suspicion that there is a psychological reason for muffs and fumbles at important times.

One thing is certain—you never can say Whitted isn't trying, and that charge was brought against Lewis late in the season because he seemed to lack his old confidence and looked discouraged. I know that a lot of ball players who hold iron-clad contracts did not try hard this year beyond protecting themselves.

I have seen outfielders deliberately stop batted balls, let them fall to the ground and then toss them back to the infield instead of trying to scoop them cleanly and make a play. I heard Lewis accused of this, but his own teammates indignantly denied it. They said "Duff" just had a little slump in his work.

He can hit. He is one of the best of his kind on the circuit, and is liable to clean up at any time with a terrific smash to left. He hits the left handers well, and he hits good pitching. I have before me the clipped scores of a dozen games in which Boston made very few hits off opposing pitchers and Lewis in almost every case was one of the few who scored hits, especially up to July 15.

HARVARD FOOTBALL TEAM MUST SHOW IMPROVEMENT

By SYDE LYNES.

It seems to have become a habit in recent years for the Yale eleven to drink of the bitter cup of Defeat early in the season or permit some little back woods eleven hold the Blue to that most unsatisfactory result from the viewpoint of the football enthusiast, a tie game. It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, however, and when this sort of thing happens down at New Haven, it's the signal for the wheels of progress to whirl a bit more rapidly behind the closed gates of the Bowl.

Saturday was on the whole a most unsatisfactory day. The game of football was not invented to be played in a downpour of rain or on the high seas. And such a condition not only provides a team with a pretty nearly unimpeachable alibi if results are unfavorable, but it prevents an eleven from showing its coaches just what has been accomplished by the previous week's work, and what are still the fundamental weaknesses.

It will be interesting to watch the results from New Haven on Saturday of this week. Yale pits its strength against the Lehigh eleven. For several years past the Pennsylvania team has been well up in football knowledge and in gridiron accomplishments. Carisle's defeat at the hands of Lehigh Saturday, while not necessarily of significance, seems to point to another hard tussle for Yale Saturday in the sunken bowl. Yale will show a decidedly better brand of football against Lehigh, however, than was uncorked for the Virginians, as the backfire from such a defeat as the Elis suffered last Saturday is usually a healthy one.

HARVARD MUST IMPROVE.

Harvard has little to be proud of in the game with the Aggies. Of course conditions were not conducive to any very high form of football. It did seem in the Aggie game, however, as though the Crimson's defence was not only loose, but also very slow to diagnose plays and get into them. Coach Haughton has yet a big task on his hands to round his team into any kind of shape for the hard games to come. To be sure, he is not disposed to hurry the development of his team to such a degree that this might imperil the condition of his eleven when it is called upon to give its best it has, but Saturday's game disclosed a number of fundamental weaknesses which will have to be eradicated before the Virginia team makes its debut in the Stadium.

It is quite futile to attempt to draw any conclusions from the results of Saturday's game in the major circles. To do so would be much the same as adding apples and pears. They are valuable, however, to the coaches in pointing out the weaknesses of their proteges, and such discourses will be worked upon this week.

HARVARD PLAYS CARLISLE.

Harvard had her scouts at the Yale-Virginia game Saturday, as well as at the tussle between Carlisle and Lehigh. The Indians are no longer the doughty warriors of former years, their progress and such forward to the game with them on Saturday only as an excellent means of still further developing the Crimson machine. Harvard hasn't forgotten the last visit of the Redskins to the Stadium, however, and as far as it is consistent with the safety of the players and the best interests of the team, every effort will be made to show the Carlisle team just exactly where they get off.

With the exception of a few minor bruises, which every football player accepts as the natural result of a game, the Harvard squad came through the battle with the Aggies in good shape. The fact that very few Harvard players got into the game, as compared with the number that usually frisk about on the Stadium gridiron in the early contests signified one of two things. Either that the invaders were an unusually strong and well developed eleven, or that the coaches felt that Harvard's team was so backward in its development that it needed the practice of a whole game. Of course, the contest was very short, so that the regulars by playing right through were not really subjected to the risks usually attendant on a gruelling and long struggle.

RESUME WORK TODAY.

The regulars of the Crimson were scheduled for light, easy work today. The rest of the week, however, will be one of steady, hard plugging, both mentally and physically, for Haughton is still a booster for the "excellence-in-football-by-the-blackboard-route" idea.

McNamara-Hagan Lose in Golf Play

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Tom McNamara of Boston paired with Walter Hagen, were defeated 3 up and 3 to play by Alec Smith and Gilbert Nichols in a four-ball match at Great Neck.

START ALLOTTING SERIES' TICKETS

By RIGHT FIELD.

Robert McIlroy, formerly treasurer of the Red Sox, will arrive in Boston today to take charge of the allotment of seats for the World's Series games in Philadelphia.

The committee of the Royal Rooters is busy with the distribution of the 100 tickets for reserved grandstand seats in the Quaker City. Johnny Keenan, Jack Killeen and Charley Lavis will be at the Hotel Continental until noon Wednesday. The Royal Rooters have to pay $37, but money will be refunded for games not played or for trips that are not made.

With the Royal Rooters winning their fight for seats—and good seats, too—principally through the determined stand taken by President Lannin of the Red Sox, the program for the trip to Philadelphia to urge on the Carrigans in their big fight is all prepared. It is as follows:

THURSDAY—Take special train at South Station for New York.

FRIDAY—Meet at Elks' Building, New York, to special train for Philadelphia. Root for Red Sox at second game.

SATURDAY—Root for Red Sox at second game.

There are forty clerks, in addition to the regular office force, working day and night at Fenway Park, but tomorrow or Wednesday is the earliest that the fans can hope to hear about their applications for reservations for tickets for the Boston games.

An actual count at Braves Field shows that 28,000 persons can be seated there, but there will be plenty of standing room. A low fence will be erected from the centre field bleachers up a line to the scoreboard. Several thousand persons can stand back of this fence at cut prices.

RED SOX ALSO OWN AN ALEX OR TWO

It's all right for the Order of Wise Guys to hand it out that Grover Alexander is going to prove ineffective in the Big Show and grab off the honors won by Ed Walsh, "Bill" Dinneen, "Cy" Young, Ed Walsh, Harry White, Christie Mathewson, Mordecai Brown, Ed Reulbach, Orvie Overall, "Chief" Bender, Jack Coombs, Eddie Plank, "Babe" Adams, Dick Rudolph, and Bill James, in bygone World's Series tussles, but for the attentuated Nebraskan to come through and imitate Mathewson, Coombs and Adams in bagging three successive combats in a championship series, he must overthrow the best baseball club of modern times; one chock full of hard-hitters, fancy fielders, game and smart workmen; one that in the position vs. position comparison has the honors practically from end to end of the ball field and one that is particularly long on fitting slab talent and one which, in less than a fortnight hence, may be shown to own an Alexander or two of its own.

The Red Sox's three catchers and its all-star outfield went through the 1912 World's Series and came out with flying colors. Wood and Collins are the only hurlers remaining of that championship member and the latter has been shoved into the discards.

As for the former, who looked only fair at best when getting his Derby trial in the first combat in the twin bill at Washington, Saturday, he appears out of the reckoning in the big series. Wood is not the Wood of old and we doubt sincerely if Carrigan starts him against the Phillies.

SHORE A WONDER.

To fill the shoes of Hugh Bedient, "Buck" O'Brien and Charley Hall, Carrigan has Ernie Shore, an Alexander himself, as the country from Portland, Me., to Portland, Ore., is going to find out in less than a week's time, providing the lanky right-hander is the Carrigan nominee for work in the first big tussle; "Dutch" Leonard, the best southpaw in the game, who bids fair hurling his 1914 article in the series, and that despite the fact that the dope shows that a left-hander seldom makes the Phillies regulars; "Babe" Ruth, another 18-karat Southpaw; George Foster, as gritty and as reliable a right-hander as the game owns, winner of six of his seven starts over the slugging Detroit Tygers in this campaign and author of more triumphs than any other twirler on the Carrigan corps; Vean Gregg, who isn't being considered for the World's Series, but who when in form is as good as the best, and Carl Mays, relief bozman par excellence, the owner of a puzzling underhand delivery, the best brought into the big arena since "Iron Man" Joe McGinnity pestered out.

CARRIGAN NOT WORRYING.

That bevy of scintillant slab talent satisfied Carrigan, even if it isn't making shouters of the Phillies wince now that it's time to turn in the prophecies. Granting that Alexander may stop the bunch, we have the hunch that "ere the Big Show comes to a close that Grover will find himself in the same position as the courageous Germans who have found out that fighting the allies is a dog-gone tough proposition. Yes, Carrigan must be shown that Alexander can flay Shore, Foster and Leonard, not to mention Ruth, ere he can be shoved off, before he will believe it.

As for the Carrigan infield, Gardner alone went through the fight of 1912. But aside from the brilliant Scott, there's no inexperienced talent to be sent to against the Phillies. Jack Barry has been through as many World's Series' battles as any infielder in baseball. Furthermore, Jack has always had the happy habit of going his surest when the pace was the hottest. Eddie Collins hasn't picked a better second base field mate than Box this Summer than Barry has put up for the Red Sox. Today Carrigan went as far as to say that in his opinion he considered Barry the better second baseman of the two and that is, indeed, lavish praise.

BARRY A BIG ASSET.

"While Boston 'fans' know full well that Barry aided us a lot in making our big drive for the flag, and how Jack pull off a lot of spectacular plays all season long, Barry, former Athletic really played his best ball for us on the road," stated Carrigan at the Hotel Adelphia today.

"Barry's fielding in Detroit and Chicago in the games we had to win in order to insure us the pennant was wonderful. He made stops I never dreamed were on and got base men like Cobb, Bush, Vitt, Felsch, Eddie Collins and Weaver at first on plays no other infielder could have pulled off."

Barry, though new to the Boston Club, comes under the head of finished, efficient and experienced workman.

Yes; S. S. S. Is Purely Vegetable Nature's Safe Blood Treatment

Known for 50 Years as the Best Remedy for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Skin Diseases.

Scientists have discovered that the forest and the field are abundantly supplied with vegetables of various kinds that furnish the ingredients for making a remedy for practically every ill and ailment of mankind. Medicines made from roots, herbs and barks which Nature has placed at the disposal of man are better than strong mineral mixtures and concoctions. Mineral medicines work dangerously on the delicate parts of the system, especially the stomach and bowels, by eating out the lining membrane, producing chronic dyspepsia and often entirely ruining the health.

S. S. S. is guaranteed to be a purely vegetable remedy. It is made entirely of gentle-acting, healing, purifying roots, herbs and barks, possessing properties that build up all parts of the system, in addition to removing all impurities and poisons from the blood. S. S. S. is a safe treatment for Rheumatism, Catarrh, Scrofula, Sores and Ulcers, Skin Diseases and all disorders of the blood. It cleanses the entire system and it's permanent. Get S. S. MATTY BALDWIN OUT TO HALT WHITE DRIVE

CHARLEY WHITE, who has proved a stumbling block for New England's best lightweights this year, will perform in this man's town again tomorrow night. He will be pitted against Matty Baldwin in a twelve-round frolic at the Atlas A. A. As Baldwin says he is in as good condition as he was when he held Willie Ritchie to a draw, a lively session is expected.

White claims he will knock out Baldwin. The Chicago lightweight wants to prove that there is not a lightweight in New England who possesses enough class to go twelve rounds with him. Nate Lewis' protege has plenty of reasons for believing that he outclasses the local 133-135-pound glove hero. He has already knocked out Eddie Murphy, Gilbert Gellant and Freddy Yelle.

While also stopped Charley Thomas of Philadelphia in a contest in this city, while he fought a twelve-round draw with "Young" Saylor. The decision in the Saylor fight was a very poor one, the Indianapolis boxer having a large advantage over his hard-hitting opponent.

BALDWIN believes he will be able to give White a surprise. The Charlestown veteran realizes that White is a sweet puncher, but he does not consider him a wonderful ring general.

"I know White is a great hitter," said Baldwin today, "but I, nevertheless, believe I will be able to make things interesting for him. The Chicago boxer is very slow. He is not aggressive and consequently I will have a fine chance to outpoint him tomorrow evening.

"Saylor is the only boxer whom I have seen in action who has fought White along the proper lines. He did not keep at long range and allow White to stand off and work his punches. He kept in close and did not give White a chance to "set." He hammered away at White's head and body and this worried the Chicago boy.

"I have not fought for a month and consequently should be strong tomorrow evening. In the old days, I could fight once a week and show at my best, but I now require a month's rest between bouts in order to do myself justice."

RED SOX PLAY TWO AGAINST YANKEES

tice. Carrigan stood behind the bat, handling the shoots of the pitchers the entire time the workout was on. There was no leading, the pitching being swifter than usually offered in batting practice, and the artillery laid against the ball its hardest.

Jack Barry, who got in from Boston this morning, got over the sod in great shape. He's a sure starter against the Phillies. Furthermore, Jack bids fair being at his best. Henriksen, who also rejoined the Red Sox today, is still limping a trifle, as a result of turning his ankle on a Braves Field last Tuesday, but Trainer Greene declares that Olaf will be O. K. by Friday. That assures Carrigan his full strength for the World's Series, unless somebody gets hurt in the games with the Yankees. It was Leonard against Markle in the opener.

FIRST INNING.

Red Sox—Hooper walked. Scott forced Hooper, Peck to Baumann. Speaker singled on a line to left. Hobby sent up a skyscraper to Maisel. Baumann threw out Lewis. NO RUNS.

Yankees—Gardner made a good catch of High's foul spiral against the field berms. Peck singled to centre. Maisel forced Peck, Leonard to Scott. Maisel out stealing, Carrigan to Scott. NO RUNS.

SECOND INNING.

Red Sox—Gardner called out on strikes. Barry dropped a single in centre. Carrigan lined a triple off High's pretty running catch of his inning liner. Leonard punched a single off Maisel's shins. Hooper flied to High. NO RUNS.

Yankees—Mullen reached first on Scott's fumble. Baumann forced Mullen, Leonard to Scott. Gardner whirled himself through the air and while sprawled out on the ground knocked down Hendryx's running liner with his left hand. Larry recovered in time to toss to Barry, heading off Baumann. Barry threw out Miller. NO RUNS.

THIRD INNING.

Red Sox—Scott lifted to High. Speaker walked. Hobby raised to High. Barry bargained on a Mullen trying to pick Speaker off first and Trip took second. Lewis got a free ticket. Baumann threw out Gardner. NO RUNS.

Yankees—Alexander walked. Markle sacrificed, Leonard to Hobby. High's hot one bounded off Leonard's gloved hand over to Barry, who threw High out at first, Alexander reaching third. Peck singled to left, scoring Alexander. Maisel fanned. ONE RUN.

FOURTH INNING.

Red Sox—Barry reached second on Maisel's overthrow and advanced to third on Carrigan's sacrifice, Markle to Mullen. Leonard went to Mullen. Hooper singled to left, Barry scoring. Scott singled to right, Hooper sprinting to third. Speaker drove deep to High. ONE RUN.

Yankees—Mullen singled to left. Baumann forced Mullen, Gardner to Scott. Hendryx to Baumann. Gardner to Barry. Miller fanned. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Red Sox—Hobby singled to right on the line. Lewis fanned and Hobby was doubled stealing, Alexander to Baumann, Gardner grounded to Mullen. NO RUNS.

Yankees—Alexander doubled to left, the ball hitting the wall on the line. Markle fanned. High out slowly to Scott and beat Everett's throw to Hobby. Alexander taking third. Peck smashed to deep centre on a line for two bases, scoring Alexander. Maisel High, but was thrown out trying to stretch the run, Speaker to Scott to Gardner. Maisel reached first on Scott's fumble. Mullen popped to Barry. TWO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

Red Sox—Maisel threw out Barry. Carrigan popped to Maisel. Leonard fanned. NO RUNS.

Yankees—Baumann singled to left. Hendryx sacrificed, Gardner to Hobby. Baumann taking second. Miller doubled to centre, Baumann scoring. Alexander singled to left, Miller scoring. Carrigan let Lewis' return get away from him and Alexander reached third. Markle rolled to Hobby, whose throw to Carrigan headed off Alexander. High forced Markle, Scott to Barry. TWO RUNS.

THE RABBIT'S COLUMN By Walter J. Maranville SHORTSTOP OF THE BRAVES

WITH the opening game of the World's Series being staged in Philadelphia, the Phillies will have a fine chance to "get the jump" on the clan of Carrigan. Alexander is certain to pitch the first tussle for the Phillies and he is almost unbeatable when playing in the Quaker City. If Friday is a dull, dark day, the Red Sox sluggers will have a difficult task even seeing Alex's fast ball. Therefore, how much of a chance will they have of hitting the National League pitching king safely?

ALEXANDER will also have a decided shade on the Red Sox if Friday is a clear, sunny day. The Phillies' outfield is skirted by bleachers. They are only a short distance back of the outfielders and they are sure to be packed with baseball enthusiasts. Crowded bleachers prove a very poor background for a batter. This is especially true when a speed pitcher like Alexander is performing in the box.

* * *

THE short right field fence will also help the Phillies a great deal. The Red Sox, of course, have some long hitters. They tell me that Del Gainer is the longest hitting ball player in the world, but one is forced to admit that the Phillies have a better chance of driving out healthy wallops at their own ball park than the Red Sox have, as Carrigan's men are not posted on the various carries in the park. The Phillies' park is a joke. They have one of the poorest baseball plants in the country and it is to be regretted that it will be necessary to play World's Series games at such a place. Boston "fans" considered the old Walpole street grounds a mighty poor ball park, but it was a high class layout when compared to the home of the National League champions.

THE wonderful Red Sox outfield will also be handicapped while playing in Philadelphia. Speaker, Hooper and Lewis will not have acres of ground over which to romp. Their movements will be restricted. Hooper, for example, is a remarkable fielder and has few equals when it comes to going back for a hard hit ball. He will be unable to go back far in Philadelphia without crashing into the right field fence. Many hits may go for doubles which Hooper would be able to catch with ease at Braves field or Fenway Park. Lewis and also have to restrict his efforts on account of the left field bleachers. Speaker, however, will have more territory than Hooper or Lewis and should be able to execute some of his spectacular catches.

ALL this, of course, is only "dope." The Red Sox pitchers may be no effective in Philadelphia that Moran's fence breakers will experience difficulty in knocking the ball outside of the infield. The Red Sox, on the other hand, may smash Alexander's best offerings up against the right field wall and into the left and centre field bleachers.

THE Red Sox will have one big advantage over the Phillies Friday. They will not be nervous. In the first place they have more World's Series veterans than Moran, while they will also be playing away from home. Ball players are never as nervous when playing away from home as they are when they are being cheered on by thousands of their followers. We opened in Philadelphia against the Athletics last year. It was like playing in an ordinary league game. It was a different story when we returned to Boston. We were playing before a home crowd and were eager to show to advantage. The result was that most of us were very nervous before the game started. We did not steady down for several innings.

I DO not expect either the Phillies or Red Sox to win four straight games this year. The series will probably go six games. I do not care to try and pick a winner as the rival clubs are well matched and a pebble in the infield is liable to upset a month of statistics, as one expert recently put it.

I EXPECT Carrigan to rely upon Shore, Foster and Leonard for his box work. I do not believe he will take chances with either Wood or Ruth if his "Big Three" are at their best. Wood and Ruth might pitch hang-up ball if injected into the big show, but they are not as certain to deliver the goods as are the first three named hurlers.

walked. Smith hit a fly to short left which Burns trapped and then threw to Merkle who tossed to Fletcher, forcing Magee. Fletcher then threw to Brainard, who touched out Evers, completing the double play. ONE RUN.

SECOND INNING.

Giants—Merkle singled to left. Fletcher flied to Compton. Kelly fanned. Brainard fanned. NO RUNS.

Braves—Collins walked and stole second. Maranville hit to Fletcher, who tried to get Collins at third, but Brainard muffed the ball. Whaling singled to right, scoring Collins. Maranville was caught off second, Ferritt to Fletcher. Tyler flied to Fletcher. Moran fouled to Brainard. ONE RUN.

THIRD INNING.

Giants—Meyers flied to Compton. Ferritt fanned. Burns walked. Evers threw out Robertson. NO RUNS.

Braves—Evers walked. Compton grounded out to Merkle. Magee popped to Fletcher. Smith fouled to Fletcher. NO RUNS.

FOURTH INNING.

Giants—Doyle walked. Merkle hit a long fly to Moran. Doyle dashed for second after the catch and was safe anyway, but Moran's throw hit Evers in the head and rolled to centre field. Fletcher sent out another fly to Moran and Doyle took third after the catch. Kelly singled to left, Doyle scoring. Maranville threw out Brainard. ONE RUN.

Braves—Collins grounded out to Merkle. Fletcher threw out Maranville. Whaling went out, Brainard to Merkle. NO RUNS.

FIFTH INNING.

Giants—Tyler tossed out Meyers Ferritt singled over second. Burns hit a fly to centre, which fell safely, Compton running back to the fence. Robertson flied to Compton, Ferritt taking third. Doyle fouled to Whaling. NO RUNS.

Braves—Tyler fanned. Doyle threw out Moran. Evers singled to right. He was thrown out stealing, Meyers to Fletcher. NO RUNS.

SIXTH INNING.

Giants—Merkle fouled to Whaling. Smith threw out Fletcher. Tyler blocked Kelly's rap and threw him out. NO RUNS.

Braves—Compton hit a long fly to centre, which Kelly misjudged, and it was good for two bases. Ferritt threw low to get Compton off second and Pete went to third. Magee sent up a high fly over the plate, which Meyers caught. Smith fanned. Collins grounded out to Merkle. NO RUNS.

SEVENTH INNING.

Giants—Brainard grounded to Magee, Tyler taking the toss. Meyers flied to Collins. Ferritt singled past Evers. Burns fouled to Magee. NO RUNS.

Braves—Maranville walked. Whaling was hit by a pitched ball. Tyler fanned. Moran flied to Burns. Evers singled to centre, scoring Maranville, Whaling stopping at second. Compton singled to right and Whaling scored as Meyers dropped the ball at the plate. Brainard threw out Magee. TWO RUNS.

EIGHTH INNING.

Giants—Robertson went out, Tyler to Magee. Doyle singled to left. Merkle popped to Evers, Fletcher singled to left. Kelly flied to Maranville. NO RUNS.

Braves—Brainard threw out Smith. Collins singled to centre and stole second. Maranville flied to Burns. Whaling was safe on Brainard's fumble, Collins going to third. Ferritt tossed out Tyler. NO RUNS.

NINTH INNING.

Giants—Brainard singled to left. Meyers flied to Moran. Lobert batted for Ferritt. He hit a long fly to Compton. Burns singled to right, Brainard going to third. Evers threw out Robertson. NO RUNS.

Three Cigarette Faults to Avoid

First, avoid cigarettes that don't just suit your own taste.

Second, avoid those that bother your throat or tongue.

Third, avoid those that make you "feel mean" after smoking all you want.

If Fatimas, for instance, seem to you to be guilty on any one of these three counts, we say, avoid Fatimas.

We mean what we say—for, when it comes to the taste, Fatimas can't possibly please every body—no cigarette can do that. But Fatimas do please more men than any other cigarette costing over 5c.

That's one reason why you should try them.

Another reason is because they are so SENSIBLE—so free from any "after-feeling."

If you want to know exactly what a "sensible" cigarette is, just try Fatimas by the two tests. Do that little thing today—you'll be glad.

TWO TESTS FOR ANY CIGARETTE

The taste of the cigarette—according to a leading tobacco journal—is up to the smoker. But there are other questions that you should look to, for the taste that you are going to stick to. First, that you are getting a couple of tests that make the average smoker say "Just the finest cigarette I ever smoked."

Second, there are a couple of tests that make you say "Just the finest cigarette I ever smoked."

Third, a cigarette that is "cool and comfortable" to the throat.

Fourth, a cigarette that is "cool and comfortable" to the throat.

Fifth, a cigarette that is "cool and comfortable" to the throat.

Sixth, a cigarette that is "cool and comfortable" to the throat.

What Happened to Jane

Mrs. Hardy Puts in a Good Word to Mr. Reeves for Jane.

By Virginia Terhune Van de Water.

Copyright, 1913, Star Company.

CHAPTER V.

JANE HARDY had escaped Augustus Reeves on Sunday, but she was not as fortunate on Wednesday evening when she went to the regular weekly prayer meeting in the chapel.

Her father did not accompany her, as was his custom, for his rheumatism was troubling him, and the night air, while sultry, was damp. But Mrs. Hardy and Jane attended the service together. As on Sunday night, the girl tried to slip out of the chapel as soon as the benediction was pronounced, but this time Augustus Reeves forestalled her and reached the door as soon as she.

"A shower is coming up," he said, "so you and your mother better let me go along with you, as I have an umbrella."

"Oh, no, thank you, it won't be necessary," Jane assured him, "for mother was afraid it would rain, so she brought an umbrella."

"Thank you just the same, Mr. Reeves," Mrs. Hardy said politely. She did not care for this man's escort, but he was too influential for her to wish to displease him. Might he not get Jane the coveted position of teacher in Milton? Moreover, she remembered, though reluctantly, Esra's talk of Sunday night. You never could tell what might happen.

"But we are going to have a heavy shower," Reeves insisted, "and that small umbrella will never protect you both. Your mother will need it for herself if it rains hard," he added, turning to Jane, "for it is not large, and the shower's going to be a big one."

A rumble of thunder in the near distance confirmed the truth of his statement, and a gust of wind was the forerunner of the approaching rain. People began to hurry away to their homes, all talking of the storm that was surely on its way.

MRS. HARDY TRIES TO FIND AN EXCUSE

"Oh, come, Janie, let's start," Mrs. Hardy exclaimed nervously. "I did did not think it was going to be a real heavy rain, or I'd have brought your father's umbrella, for that's so big."

"Well, I have mine, so it's all right," Reeves remarked soothingly. "Come, Jane," taking the girl's arm in his strong grasp, "we'll need to walk fast to get home in time. Then, if you don't mind, I'll wait there until the rain holds up."

"Certainly you must," chirped Mrs. Hardy.

"I think you'd better let mother take your arm, Mr. Reeves," Jane ventured, "and I will take her umbrella. I am young and it won't hurt me to get wet. Besides, I am more sure-footed than mother."

But her companion made no move to follow her suggestion. His failure to do so vexed the girl. Surely her mother needed protection more than she did. Did he suppose that she would cling to him while an older woman plodded on alone in the dark? Pulling herself suddenly away from him, she took the umbrella from her mother before Mrs. Hardy could suspect her intention and started on ahead.

"You walk with Mr. Reeves, mother," she ordered. "It's raining harder every second, and I am better able to hurry than you are."

"Your dress will be spoiled," admonished Augustus and her mother echoed his words. "Dear," she warned, "you have on a light dress, and it will be all spotted. My black alpaca won't be hurt by rain."

A loud crash of thunder almost drowned her speech, and gave the girl time to decide on her answer.

"Hurry!" she called back as she sped up the road. "Since you people are afraid I'll hurt my dress, I'll run on ahead. Mr. Reeves, I trust you to look out for mother."

She pretended not to hear the man's protests, and quickened her walk to a run.

"Oh," gasped Mrs. Hardy, taking the arm that Augustus Reeves, as in duty bound, crooked toward her, "I hate to have Jane go along these roads alone!"

"She is headstrong," pronounced the man disapprovingly. "Many young people are that way—especially an only child. She'll do better when she's settled down."

THE MOTHER COMES TO THE DEFENSE OF JANE.

"She's a dear child!" Mrs. Hardy defended her daughter.

"No doubt she is. I do not suggest that she is not," Augustus observed judiciously. "All I mean is that every young person is better when she's settled down permanently in life. Of course, that's always supposing she is under the right kind of influence. Now if Jane was married"—

"I'm in no hurry to have her marry," Mrs. Hary interrupted. But her companion continued, heedless of her mild protest.

"All women are happier married to good men with comfortable homes of their own. That is woman's proper place—the home."

"Yes, it is," Mrs. Reeves agreed. Now that he was dealing in generalities she was less uneasy. "But we've had Janie educated to teach, and in the Fall she'll have to start in at that, I suppose. I dread," with a sigh, "her going away from here. I've been wondering," timidly, "if there wouldn't perhaps be an opening for her in the Milton School."

"They need one more teacher there," Augustus said. "Maybe if I think well of it I'll mention Jane. I'll have to consider the matter seriously first."

Under ordinary conditions the mother would have resented his patronizing tone. Now, however, her desire to have him use his influence to keep Jane in Milton overcame all other feeling.

"Thank you," she said. "I'll be much obliged if you will."

A blinding flash of lightning followed by a roar of thunder put a quietus upon all conversation, and the pair hurried on in silence.

Yet their thoughts were busy—those of Augustus Reeves with a scheme for strengthening his slight hold upon Jane; those of the mother with self-congratulation on the clever way in which she "worked things" so that, after all, her beloved child would not have to leave home.

WAS IN BED FOR THIRTEEN WEEKS

Mrs. Josephine Rosseau of No. 33 Grand Ave., Boston, Was in a Terrible State.

In a recent interview, the Plant Juice Man, who has his headquarters at the Liggett Drug Company's Store, corner of Washington and Avon Streets, observed: Neglect of the stomach and digestive organs leads to untold misery, and is responsible for a very large percentage of the ills of mankind. Much unnecessary suffering would be avoided if persons would seek relief at the first sign of trouble instead of waiting until the disease obtains a firm hold upon the system. Plant Juice, the vegetable system tonic, is particularly effective in relieving all diseases of the stomach which are so prevalent. Every day more and more local people are coming to realize the truth of this assertion as is proven by the signed testimonials received of how they have been relieved of illnesses of long standing by Plant Juice, when all other remedies have failed.

Recently Mrs. Josephine Rosseau, who resides at No. 33 Grand Avenue, and is well known locally in this city, consented to allow her name to appear in print on this occasion, in view of the great benefit she has derived from Plant Juice. She stated:

"I have suffered with stomach trouble for the past five years, which took the form of indigestion and dyspepsia. My food would sour in my stomach and cause belching and pain with great pain. I had severe headaches and dizzy spells and felt as if I was always going to fall, so had to take hold of a chair or something and trying to get about. I became so weak that I had to go to my bed and stayed there for 13 weeks and thought I was going to die. I had pains all over my body, hot flashes would come over me and I was awfully nervous and restless and could never get any sleep. I read about Plant Juice in the papers, and now, after taking it for five weeks, it has cured me. I can eat any kind of food and it agrees with me. I sleep fine. Plant Juice is my family "no my only medicine."—Advertisement.

A "Dear" Memory

He was a furniture remover's man and his memory, as he cheerfully admitted, was "very convenient."

"No, I can't remember where Mr. Slyfit has taken his family and furniture."

"Come, now," said the debt collector; "he hasn't been gone a week, and you remember."

"Did I?"

"Yes, know you did"

"And it only a week ago?"

"Of course."

"Funny how easy a fellow forgets."

The collector produced a two-dollar bill, and tendered it.

"That ought to rouse your memory," he observed.

"It ought to do so, sir," he admitted, "but, you see, this ain't no common ordinary memory, and it'll take a deal of rousing. Why, it cost $4 to put it to sleep."

The Retort Courteous

A sarcastic lawyer, during a case made use of the expression, "Cast not your pearls before swine." Subsequently, as he arose to finish the argument, the judge facetiously remarked:

"Be careful, Mr. S——, not to cast your pearls before swine."

"Don't be alarmed, your honor; I am about to address the jury, not the Court."

"Friend Father" as a Companion

Dorothy Dix Advises Men to Be Chums With Their Children

By DOROTHY DIX.

THE other day I heard a man telling about a gay little jaunt he had taken with his two sons. He related the various things that the boys did, and then he said, "And it was up to Friend Father to make good."

That man has solved the most important problem in the universe—how to raise boys. There is no question about how that man's sons are going to turn out. There never is with boys who have a Friend Father.

The greatest lack in America today is the lack of fathers. We have plenty of men who work themselves to death for their children, and feel that they have fulfilled every obligation of parenthood when they have supplied the necessary food and clothing and indulgences for their offspring. But that is all. That is as far as they go. Except for the responsibility of the thing, the great majority of children in this country might just as well be fatherless as to have the utter stranger who stands to them in that relationship.

They have been raised by their mothers. It is to mama that they've got to look with their hopes and plans and aspirations. It is mama who has decided every question about them, from whether they would have real lace or hand embroidery on their baby clothes, to what colleges they should attend, what beaux they should marry. Their only conception of father is as a cash register, or the vote power, or a grouch that mama has to work in their behalf.

STRANGERS.

Of father as a man, as a human being, as a companion, as a friend, they know no more than they do the world. And he knows no more of them. They have not even a speaking acquaintance, and are mutually embarrassed when forced to spend a few minutes in each other's company.

It is because father is so seldom Friend Father to his children that we have such great hordes of youthful criminals, that the courts are filled with boys in their teens who are gunmen, murderers, dope fiends and thieves, and that the newspapers team with scandals concerning young girls.

For mother's influence, despite all the fish-dub sentiment on the subject, isn't always a good influence, and, as a matter of fact, no woman can alone bring up children properly. Especially is she unfitted to deal with boys. Her very tenderness is only too often the undoing of those upon whom it is lavished. Her sacrifice of herself to her children makes them selfish and determined to take what they want at any cost; her lack of knowledge of the world prevents her from adequately protecting her young against the dangers they must meet.

This is where the necessity for Friend Father comes in. He been over the road that every boy must travel and he knows where the dangers lie. Evil women and drink and gambling are not vague potentialities of wickedness to him as they are to his boy's mother. They are concrete perils that every youth has to face and conquer, or else be conquered by them.

THE SNARES.

And he knows the snares that are laid for every girl's feet, and he's seen what happened to those who did not walk warily. He knows that innocence is no protection. He knows how easy it is for a girl through sheer folly and carelessness to bedraggle her skirts so that a lifetime of tears never washes out the stain.

But what can a man do to save the children that he would give his very life's blood to protect, unless he is Friend Father? How can he talk to his son about the most intimate thing in life unless there is a confidence between them that goes back to the boy's very babyhood? How can he expect a boy to open his heart to him and tell him the secrets of his soul, in some moment of temptation, if the two have never had a real conversation together in the whole course of their existence?

Nothing is more common than to hear a man say of a boy who is about to finish school that he doesn't know what sort of business or profession to put him in. Such a speech is a criminal confession of failure as a father. It shows that the man has never been Friend Father to his son, he's never taken trouble to get acquainted with him or to study his tastes and aptitudes.

The chief reason that so many men do not succeed in life is because their fathers fail them in this important particular. If the father had done his duty by the time his son was twenty years old he would know the lad well enough to direct him in the choice of a career, and the poor, ignorant boy would not be left to lose years floundering around trying to find himself.

POTENTIALITIES.

And Friend Father could so often prevent the wreck of his daughter's life by preventing her from making a disastrous marriage if only he were on intimate enough terms with her to have her confide in him, so that he could give any youth in whom she was beginning to feel a dawning interest the once over.

Father could explain to Mabel Maude what a cocktail breath and a pasty face indicate in man. Father has moans of finding out whether the young men who hang around his house are hustlers or loafers and whether the girl who marries one of them is likely to ride in limousines or do her own washing.

But father can do none of these things if he's no little acquainted with his own daughter that he's the last person who hears that she's in love and going to be married to some youth of whose existence he learns for the first time, when mother tells him that Mabel Maude is engaged to John Doe.

Every father desires to give his children advantages. Believe me, the best thing that any man can give his children is to give himself to them as a friend.

In Our Wonderful World

The value of the yield per acre of bananas in the Cefba district, Honduras, is less than that of wheat, but, unlike wheat, the banana cannot be stored. It must be marketed when it is ready for marketing, and as the demand in the United States fluctuates with the extent of the American fruit crop, or the severity of the Winter, many bananas must go to waste.

The banana planter does not go into his fields and pluck his bananas as he thinks they have properly matured, but receives telegraphic orders from the railway or steamship company to cut bananas on a certain day not more than 36 hours in advance of the scheduled departure of the ship. Cars are placed on his sidetrack, usually directly in the plantation.

The planter goes over his fields and cuts all fruit ready for shipping, neither too ripe nor too green; has it hauled to the waiting cars on mule-back or oxcarts and inspected. At the close of the day the waiting cars are picked up by the banana trains and hauled to the coast. A day is required to load the ship, and three days later the vessel is in New Orleans.

In Latin it is Deus; Greek, Zeus; Hebrew, Adon; Syrian, Adad; Arabian, Alla; Persian, Syrs; Tartarian, Idga; Egyptian, Aums or Zeut; East Indian, Esgi or Zeni; Japanese, Zath; Turkish, Addi; Scandinavian, Odin; Croatian, Dorz; Dalmatian, Nogi; Tyrrhenian, Eher; Etrurian, Chur; Marcarian, Oase; German, Gott; French, Dieu; Spanish, Dios; Peruvian, Llan.

In Anglo-Saxon the three-letter name means "good," which has four letters.

Uncle Sam runs some peculiar businesses, and among them is that of a reindeer farmer. There are government herds of reindeer which come close to the 200,000 mark.

To the inhabitant of northern Alaska the reindeer is a downright necessity. Reindeer teams haul the mail to the scattered gold-mining camps and settlements far from the few miles of railroads that Alaska possesses. They can carry a bigger load and go farther and faster than the malamutes, or trail-dogs, and (a much more important factor) are very easily fed, living mainly on Arctic moss.

Even the Clam Had to Laugh at Dinny

WAL, I AIN'T BLIND, I SEE IT'S A 'CLAM.'
Y'DEAN STEAMING IT'S A 'CLAM,' NOT ONLY IS IT A 'CLAM' WOMAN, BUT IT IS ALSO YOUR ANCESTOR AND MINE.
AW GIT OUT WITCHA - I DON'T BELIEVE IT -
DARWIN' SAYS WE DESCENDED FROM THE 'CLAM' - AND IF ANY BODY KNOWS, HE DOES.
OH WELL, IF HE SAYS SO, I GOTTA ACKNOWLEGE THAT 'CLAM' IS MY ANCESTOR - BUT I REFUSE TO ADMIT THAT I DESCENDED FROM IT -
WOULD YOU HAVE ME ENGAGE IN POLEMICS WITH SO AUGUST A SAVANT AS 'DARWIN' 'WOMAN' - NOT ONLY DO I CLAIM THE 'CLAM' MY ANCESTOR, BUT MY 'DESCENT' STARTS WITH THAT ESTEEMED BIVALVE.
HA HA
I LOVE MY ANCESTOR JUST AS MUCH AS YOU DO - BUT FROM HIM I DID NOT DESCEND - FROM HIM - I ASCENDED

FIREBUG CLEW GIVES HOPE OF ARREST

Captain Charles T. Rearson of the Field's Corner station today expressed strong hopes that the mystery of the Dorchester firebug will shortly be solved. He has recently received several new clews and one of them appears to be the best so far investigated.

Residents of the Dorchester district are unanimous in commending the AMERICAN for offering a reward of $100, for exclusive information furnished to the AMERICAN that will lead to the arrest and conviction of the firebug. Anything information to communicate should telephone Main 5180 and ask for the City Editor. All communications will be considered absolutely confidential. Mayor Curley, on of his own pocket, has offered an additional $100 reward for the detection of the firebug.

Today Representative Lewis R. Sullivan said:

"The AMERICAN is to be highly commended for the stand it has taken in the matter. The offer of a reward [illegible] and every interest that [illegible] a decisive [illegible] dormant and [illegible] authorities to redouble their efforts.

Many builders today also echoed the sentiments of Representative Sullivan and highly praised the AMERICAN for the efforts it has made to round up the person who is almost nightly endangering the lives and property of Dorchester citizens.

"The builders are peculiarly interested as many of the fires have been in dwellings under construction. Today all the builders operating in Dorchester agreed to keep a night watchman on each job until it is completed.

James P. Landers, a well-known resident of Dorchester, has written a letter to Fire Commissioner Grady, highly praising the work of the firemen in checking each fire before it assumed the proportions of a conflagration. The letter was read today, at roll call to the men in each engine house.

Compromise on 'L' Stations Opposed

In spite of Mayor Curley's advice to give up their fight for a subway station at Arlington street and advept a new station at Park square as a compromise, a large delegation representing the Arlington Street Station Association was unconvinced at the City Hall conference today.

Mayor Curley asserted that, while not speaking for the Elevated, he was confident that it could be forced by public opinion to build a subway station at Park square, if the Arlington street station fight were called off. When he was told, however, that in the event of a station being built at Park square the Boylston street station might be discontinued, no one would so much as consider the compromise.

This compromise was opposed by Francis G. Peabody, Jr., Russell Colgate, William L. Sheafe, Henry B. Brodie and Otto J. Piehler. When no one could get the Mayor, the matter was allowed to drop.

Mayor Curley then advised the association to call a public meeting and its campaign were to be continued.

Fire on Nascochee Ruins Cotton Cargo

SAVANNAH, Ga., Oct. 4.—Fire of unknown origin was discovered in the forward hold of the Ocean Steamship Company's Nascochee lying at her pier here. The Nascochee, one of the largest passenger steamers of the company's Savannah line, was moved to the stream and Boston. When the fire was extinguished it was found that cotton valued at $18,000 had been damaged.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks were irregular in the last hour, with railroads ranging higher than earlier in the day. The market had been more affected by selling pressure than it was last week, indicating to some traders the bull movement is near its culmination.

The price trend was indefinite most of the time. Some issues, sold at record prices recently. Among these so far to-day than the first hour were Allis Chalmers, Bethlehem, which sold up to 399¼, American Can, Pittsburgh Coal and Car & Foundry.

Among gains in New York at 2:18 were Allis-Chalmers 1¼, American Can 1¾, American Smelting 1¾, American Locomotive 1¼, Bethlehem Car & Foundry 1¾, Baldwin 3¾, Colorado Fuel 1¾, Crucible 1, Rock Island 1¾, Steel ¾ and Westinghouse ⅝.

In Boston American Zinc, which had been heavily dealt in, was off ⅛ and other declines included Cooper Range 1, Tamarack ⅛, Arizona Com. ⅛, and Alaska Gold ⅛. Gains included Wolverine common 2, preferred 1¼, Elevated 1, Granby ¼, New Haven 1⅛, United Fruit ½ and U. S. Smelting ⅛.

REACTED UNDER PROFIT TAKING.

Profit taking on a large scale caused a reaction in New York. It began in the first hour and after a slight recovery recurred to a greater extent in the second. Most professional leaders began higher and sentiment appeared as bullish as ever. Buying orders came from all sections. It is rumored the foreign loan will be oversubscribed $500,000,000 or more. This increased public confidence. Professional traders continued bearish as a class. When outside orders were filled their selling told. The market was intensely active. First hour sales totalled around 435,000 shares, for the morning more than 700,000 and by afternoon a million. There was keen demand for bonds. Many market followers excited and excited opening, but despite the magnitude of business trading was very orderly. The price range was comparatively narrow. Changes were fractional as a rule. In the first hour Allis Chalmers preferred, Steel, Willys-Overland and Miami sold at record high prices. Westinghouse, Baldwin, Car & Foundry, Crucible and

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Messrs. Bird and Burbank Appear to Have Accomplished the Impossible

The Progressive Leaders Have Secured from the Republicans the Pledge of an Honest Constitutional Convention—And the Democratic Leaders? THEY, Apparently, Are Ready to Break Any Sort of Pledge for the Price of Federal Patronage.

Mr. Bird and Senator Burbank, the Progressive leaders, appear to have accomplished the impossible in the Republican Convention. They have received a pledge for an honest Constitutional Convention. The AMERICAN feared that any Constitutional Convention which the reactionary Republicans would consent to call would be like the New York Convention, in which the vote was by party, and so gerrymandered that the election of the delegates was controlled by the corporations and bosses, just as the Legislature is controlled by the same influences.

But Mr. Bird and Senator Burbank have secured a pledge from the Republicans that they will call a convention to which delegates shall be elected without party designation. This is the most hopeful thing that has occurred in Massachusetts politics for a number of years. Such a convention will be able to formulate a series of alternative proposals to be submitted to the people. Those who believe in the Initiative and Referendum, and in other great reforms, will be able to submit to the people of Massachusetts these important progressive measures for their judgment. This has long been the object of the AMERICAN'S labors, and it is with profound satisfaction that we observe that Mr. Bird and Senator Burbank and the Progressive influences behind them, acting upon the intelligence and the flexibility of Mr. McCall, have succeeded in pledging the Republican party, which will undoubtedly control the next Legislature, to such a Constitutional Convention.

Mr. McCall's record has been pronouncedly unprogressive in the past, but he has no record of violating pledges, and now that he is specifically bound by his own desire to an honest Constitutional Convention, the AMERICAN does not doubt that he means to carry out his pledge in the utmost good faith.

Mr. Bird also appears justified in the position he took which held Governor Walsh responsible for the shortcomings of the present national administration. The AMERICAN believes that Governor Walsh, who has been a good Governor, faithful and honest, should not be obliged to bear the responsibility for the national administration in the State campaign. His supporters, however, have thought otherwise, and he accepts the responsibility with whatever consequences it may involve.

In forcing upon Governor Walsh the burden of the present national administration, these politicians in the convention were thinking only of political patronage and not of the interest of their Democratic Governor. In forcing this burden upon Governor Walsh, they have deliberately violated the solemn pledge of the last National Democratic Convention.

This is nothing new for Democratic politicians. Only three years ago more than half of them violated their pledges in the Massachusetts Legislature in order to deliver over to the New Haven Railroad the street railways in more than half of Massachusetts.

Governor Walsh succeeded for nearly two years of his administration in holding his party loyal to its party pledges. In this convention he has failed, and if he is defeated at the polls, the Democratic politicians will have sacrificed the best man among them for the sake of a few Federal jobs.

The one great lesson which the AMERICAN in the last five years has tried to teach politicians of Massachusetts is the necessity of being loyal to their promises to the people. It has never hesitated to denounce Democrats, Progressives or Republicans who betrayed their party platforms. It denounced the Democrats in the Legislature who betrayed their party faith to the New Haven Railroad. It denounced the National Democratic Administration last year for betraying the people of the country on the Panama tolls question in deliberate violation of the National Party platform.

But the Democrats of Massachusetts were loyal to their faith on this toll question, and particularly was Governor Walsh. Now, however, the Massachusetts Democratic Convention has deliberately betrayed a plank in the Democratic platform and forced Governor Walsh to bow to that betrayal. And the miserable mess of pottage for this apostacy is a little Federal patronage for a few gentlemen and nothing for the great mass of Democrats.

In American politics the most sacred thing is a party pledge. Without faith to party pledges there can be no government by the people. In no other way can the people decide by what principles they wish to control their government and what policies they wish to be enacted into law.

Until we have the Initiative and Referendum we can only rely upon party platforms by which to decide what party and candidate stand for the things we believe in. If party platforms mean nothing; if it is honorable; if it is decent to violate and betray them, then we are helpless. Without faith to party platforms we have the invisible government by private deals and secret pledges.

Sunburn and Blisters

Store Up Protection This Fall and Winter Against Discomfort Next Summer

By Woods Hutchinson, A. M., M. D.

"NO rose without its thorn" and few vacations without sunburns, cracked lips and peeling noses. But that's not the sun's fault, rather our own for hiding away from him so sedulously and fearfully all the rest of the work-a-day year. The only character of the "modest violet" in our makeup is that we "love the shade."

The best preventive of sun-scald and lobster-like flamings and peelings is regular doses of sunshine, at least once a week all through the year. This may not entirely protect in some skins and under special exposures, but it will two-thirds of the time and will at least mitigate the agony in the remaining third. By frequent and habitual exposure the skin becomes not merely accustomed to and toughened by the light, but also to some degree protected against the most penetrating of its rays, by the coat of pigment which we call tan.

We often put the wrong handle to things, and sunburn should really be termed light-burn. It is not a simple case of heat damage, such as occurs when you burn your fingers in a flame or pick up a piece of hot iron. The great part of the mischief is done, not by the heat of the sun, but by the chemical action of certain of the rays of its light. Oddly enough, the most serious and penetrating damage is done, not even by the light proper, but by the so-called dark rays at both ends of the solar-spectrum, both the infra-red and the ultra-violet, which give no light at all.

Some of these rays closely resemble both the famous X-rays and the emanations of radium, and these are the most poisonous of all, while the lightest and quickest damage is done by the so-called actinic rays, which "take" photographs. So that, when we sunburn, we are very advanced and scientific indeed and our blazing and smarting countenance is a combination of color-photography and X-ray burn.

It is doubtful whether the amount of pigment in the skin has any serious effect upon the power of the body to resist heat, and the heavily pigmented brown or black skins of tropical races are now regarded as of little or no direct value to them, but merely as a primitive character inherited from our pre-human ancestors.

This is too extensive a question to go into here, but it may be briefly said that white men, if protected from tropical diseases—which means chiefly typhoid, malaria, yellow fever and dysentery—"stand the heat" quite as well as the natives, in fact, live longer and are capable of far more work. Halfbreeds and other white mixtures with tropical races are more vigorous and active in the tropics than their native ancestors, and the negro and his hybrids all through tropical America, instead of increasing faster than the white and Indian populations, are being beaten by them at every point—vigor, fertility, longevity—and in many regions crowded out by them.

Finally, the negroes and other heavily pigmented races, who have emigrated to northern climes and become acclimated, show no greater degree of resistance to heat in the Summer than their white neighbors and stand the cold in Winter quite as well. Of which last, Captain Matt Hanson, the negro sailor who was Peary's sole companion when he discovered the Pole, is a well-known example.

So that the actual value of tan is probably only skin deep and the protection which it affords is merely against an annoying, but superficial and temporary, burning and blistering, and rather a poor and unreliable protection at that. Its principal value is as a decoration and a hall-mark of healthy, vigorous habits of life.

Inklings and Thinklings

By Wex Jones

Life's mysteries: Peace.

See that a mock trial was held at Stony Brook, L. I., in which the defendant was accused of kidnaping a clam. If people can't amuse themselves without making a jest of the serious things of life they should resign themselves to sorrow. We trust the ringing protest of the Loyal Order of Loquacious Clams will be heeded. Otherwise let the jesters beware of the silent vote.

Trouble with most men when they change their minds is that they don't change them for better ones.

"Good-bye and God bless you," telephoned Mr. Bryan to Dr. Hillis. What did Mr. Hillis do to make Mr. Bryan sore?

Best slogan we have seen in favor of national preparedness is "Prepare or Perish."

New Jersey man says rice best food for pigs in snakes, but complains that he can't get enough to fatten his stock. Why not hand the pizzics a bit of applejack and they'll think they have a bountiful snake supper in front of them.

Human Machine Still Greatest of All

Your Mind Is Your Engine, Says Ella Wheeler Wilcox, and You Should Keep It in Good Running Order.

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

SOMETHING like ten years ago Professor Dolbear astonished the scientific world by declaring that the whole of space is loaded with energy. Every cubic inch of space contains an equivalent of 500-horse power; each cubic foot more than all the steam engines in Massachusetts.

This energy resides in what we call "ether," and out of it come all the forms of energy we know—gravity, light, heat, electricity.

The great reservoir of space makes the supply inexhaustible. An exchange speaking of this says:

"For our purposes energy needs to be adapted. We adapt the energy of coal by employing a steam engine; we adapt the energy of the steam engine to electric work by employing a dynamo; we adapt electric energy to lighting purposes by employing a suitable lamp, and so on. Each form of energy requires some mechanism through which it can act and be transformed, and without mechanism and transformation no phenomenon is possible."

But the fact does not yet strike the mind of the scientific man that we already have a machine, provided by the greatest of all inventors, for adapting all the energy needed for any achievement—and that machine is man.

Man is a divine machine, formed in triangular shape—body, mind and spirit.

While he is in the frame of this earthly machine his mind is the engine which must be set in motion to supply the body, through the spirit, with this inexhaustible stream of energy.

We are a part of all this marvelous system of worlds and planets, and this mysterious ocean of space is our mother, and God is our father.

Before any machinist sets his energy working he has first to know something about the engine, how to care for it, and how to keep it in good running order.

Your mind is your engine. Keep it clean first of all. Brush out the dust of worry and the cobwebs of doubt, and the verdigris of hatred, revenge, envy, jealousy and greed.

Then take a little time, just a few moments each day, and sit very quietly alone with yourself and the engine, and imagine it is drawing energy from space. Remember what science has declared, that space is filled—packed, loaded—with energy.

And remember that you are a child of space, and that whatever you ask of that great mother shall be given you from the mansion of your father.

Breathe deep and full and slowly and exhale slowly and think you are drawing in this wonderful energy with each breath, and that it means health, power, usefulness, opulence, wisdom. It does.

After you go out from your room and about your daily occupations think that you are giving forth particles of this energy to everyone with whom you associate. Rejoice in the thought, for the more you give the more you will receive from space. As fast as you empty your reservoir the Divine Source will refill it.

If you follow this little lesson faithfully for three weeks' time, never missing one day, you will be told by your friends that they feel better after meeting you. Your presence will cheer the despondent and give new vitality to the sick without any effort on your part.

But beware of boasting of this result when it comes, or indulging any personal vanity or sense of power, for that will act as a leak in your engine, and the power will leave you.

You must remain humble and reverent and grateful to the Source. You must not think of yourself as a specially favored being, but only as an enlightened one who has come into the knowledge which is free to every soul on earth.

What the great seers and masters of truth have known since the beginning of time the scientific world is just learning.

Space is, indeed, packed with energy.

That energy is yours.

Ask and you shall receive.

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

There Always Are Two Sides

THE hero draws a .44, puts on a righteous frown,
Arises sternly from his chair and shoots the villain down.
And as he turns upon his heel and calmly walks away
(The hero, not the villain) everybody yells "Hooray!"

Oh, cold and cruel audience, have ye no heart at all?
That villain's wife will have to wear her Summer hat this Fall!

THE hero shrilly yells for help, two cops rush on the scene
And roughly beat the villain with their nightsticks on the bean.
And when they take him off to jail upon a charge of fraud,
The crowds that throng the theatre delightedly applaud.

And there is no one in the house to tremble with alarm
Lest they foreclose the mortgage on the villain's mother's farm.

THE hero lands the villain on a wild and savage shore
And leaves him there to listen while the famished tigers roar.
And when his attitude reveals that he is much annoyed,
And as he hisses: "Foiled again!" the crowd is overjoyed.

A lot they care that by and by, when he is cold and dead,
The villain's little children must go supperless to bed.

Sheer Tragedy

When Tommy bids farewell to joy
And glooms the whole day long,
When meals and movies only cloy
And everything seems wrong,
When he is lightly moved to rage
And all the time is fussed,
When he regards the sporting page
With infinite disgust,
When ice cream soda has no lure
His appetite to thrill,
When even apple pie is sure
To make him sadder still,
When he is daily bowed with care,
The prey of dumb distress,
The haunted image of despair,
It's always safe to guess
That he has felt the bitter ache
Of love's elusive dream
Or else he's found he cannot make
The high school football team.

In Extenuation

We shall continue to listen placidly to the phrase "Rings of steel" till some correspondent begins to refer to them as squared circles.

Cupidity Among Clams

A Maryland man who dug up a couple of clams found a ten-dollar bill in each clam. It is evident that the clams had found out somewhere about the high prices clam diggers were getting for the pearls they contained.

The Reason

People who wonder why Mr. Bryan didn't pay his automobile license in Florida forget that Mr. Bryan is Mr. Bryan and five dollars is five dollars.

Easy

We are astonished at Luther Burbank, who says he fears he cannot raise black cotton. Why doesn't he try raising it in Pittsburgh?

In Every Life Some Rain Must Fall

Mr. Bryan has big trouble, too. His son-in-law has been mentioned for conspicuous gallantry in action.
